IN REALTY DEALS

Referee Declares That as Agent for Mrs. Sue B. M. Rogers He Used Negro Waiters and a Negro Janitor as Dummy Buyers for Her Property.

REPORT ASKS FOR RETURN OF $7761

Specific Instances Cited in Which Defendant Is Alleged to Have Resold His Client's Land at Large Profit to Himself.

"These transactions constitute fraud in equity." The defendants took one-half of the net profits on the resale of the property as the price of their disloyalty to their client.

"The defendants were guilty of acting in a dual capacity."

These accusations are made against Sylvester J. Fisher and the B. J. Fisher Realty Co., 714 Chestnut street, by Referee Clarence T. Case, who heard testimony in the suit of Joseph A. Wright, executor of the estate of the late Mrs. Sue B. M. Rogers against Fisher and his firm. The referee's report is under consideration in Judge Allen's court.

Mrs. Rogers, a former St. Louis woman and aunt of Amadeo B. D. died in the spring of 1908 at P. City, Va. It is charged by Referee Case that while she was on her bed, Fisher's company, through a negro janitor as a dummy purchaser, made secret profits of $3897 on of lands she owned in Dunklin Co., Mo.

It is charged that Fisher's company was ordered by the referee to return $7761.22, with interest, the firm's profits in the sale of the land and in other transactions in which Fisher was employed.

Fisher is entangled in Mrs. Rogers' estate of eight lots and sections which she owned in Benning County, Mo., of two lots at St. Louis, of a lot at Washington and Fifteenth street, and of land in Dunklin County, Mo.

Case declares that Fisher joined with Albert S. Loomis, who was represented by a dummy purchaser, Harry C. Toung, to acquire the Laclede gas property for $10,000. Later, Loomis was represented by another straw man, Charles Davis, a negro waiter. It was to Davis that Mrs. Rogers, in 1903, executed a deed to the real estate.

To make up his associate's share of the purchase price, it is declared that Fisher loaned Loomis $1200 on condition that the real estate man should have absolute control of the property, collect the rents, and receive one-half of the profits in case the lots should be sold advantageously. Fisher's net profit on this deal was $1212.25. Case finds, as the lots were sold to J. M. Francis, then City Treasurer, for $20,000, Francis, according to Case, was represented in the transaction by Robert N. Quackenbush, who acted as purchaser.

Fraud is charged. "This transaction was a fraud in equity," the referee remarks. He adds that Fisher's company collected $2000 commission from Mrs. Rogers as compensation for the sale of the lots to Fisher and Loomis.

The evidence shows, according to Case, that Fisher conducted negotiations with William H. Hunter of Dunklin County, for the sale of 1080 acres of Mrs. Rogers' holdings, which she was willing to pay at least $5 an acre, his correspondence showed, but Fisher disposed of the land to Arthur Lyons, a negro janitor and a dummy purchaser, for $4500 an acre. The real buyer, Case reports, was J. N. Maupin, a personal friend of Zeta Robinson, salesman for the Fisher concern.

"Robinson saw, or thought he saw, an opportunity to make a nice profit for his friend Maupin," the report states. For this transaction, the Fisher Realty Co. received a commission of $2000, Case asserts, from Mrs. Rogers.

Big Profit in Deal. Four days after Mrs. Rogers died the property to Lyons, whom Fisher, a letter to his client, described as a "home life purchaser," the land was sold to Hunter for $1250 an acre, or a profit of $1000.

CONFIDENCE MAN GIVES $50 IN CHANGE FOR COUNTERFEIT $100

Tries to Swindle Stranger and Is Arrested for Passing Money Obtained.

By Special Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Greek told Greek, Hank Dalton, notorious confidence man, made a bargain with another man who gave him a name as Wallenstein Siegrist of Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dalton was gazing at the Metropolitan Life building in Madison Square when a stranger, who appeared to be a farmer, accosted him. Their conversation resulted in the pseudo sale by Dalton to the stranger of the Metropolitan Life building for $500.

"It was agreed that $50 earnest money should be paid, and a paper, adorned with many legal phrases, was drawn up to that effect. The man gave a $100 bill to Dalton and Dalton gave $50 in change."

When Dalton tendered the $100 bill in payment for a Thanksgiving dinner, he was arrested for passing counterfeit money. The bill was a bad imitation.

Wife Arrives With the Turkey Just in Time for Thanksgiving Dinner.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—When A. O. Tate found out that he could not get back to his farm near Walpole, N. Tate had telegraphed to his wife. She took the next train for Chicago, arriving yesterday morning, and her chief baggage was a large trunk filled with turkey and trimmings that were to have graced their own table on the farm.

100 WHALES IN FUNERAL PARTY

They Escort Vessel Bearing Sea Monster's Bones.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Officers and crew of the British steamer Welch Prince, that arrived just yesterday from Yokohama, tell a story of a school of at least one hundred whales that followed their vessel from Japanese waters in what the sailors believe was a funeral cortege for the bones of one of the largest whales ever captured off the coast of Japan.

The bones were in seven crates and weighed 175 tons. As soon as the ship began its voyage the whales were reported. Just before the Boston light ship was reached, officers say there were at least one hundred of the monsters swimming along with the vessel at an even speed. They were prevented from coming further by shallow water.

POLICEMAN SENT TO INSANE WARD
BY LONELINESS

For Three Years Gallagher Was Isolated in O'Fallon Park.

BIRDS ONLY FRIENDS

When Winter Came He Missed Them and Longed for Spring.

For three years Policeman John Gallagher was an exile. Day after day and often far into the night he was a prisoner in the O'Fallon Park Police Station, as truly a prisoner, he says, as though he had been locked in a cell.

He alone was on duty at the station, a small room with little more than space for his desk and chair and telephone switchboard.

For three years he was the loneliest man in St. Louis—and then his mind gave way under the strain. Friday he was taken to the observation ward of the city hospital.

At first the birds were company for Gallagher. In the giant trees which shaded the little station by day and plunged it into gloom by night the birds chattered from early spring until late fall.

Then by contrast came the silent winter, through whose dismal days and nights Gallagher would long for return of the time when the birds would sing again.

Birds His Companions. "The birds were fine at first," said Gallagher. "They were the only companions I had. I couldn't leave the station even for a little walk because the phone might ring while I was gone and there would be no one there to answer it. All I could do was to stand in the door and watch the birds. Sometimes I fed them with bread crumbs. But after awhile the birds got on my nerves."

"Sometimes it seemed to me they were talking about me. I didn't hear songs any more. I heard voices. They scared me. I would shut the door and the windows, but I couldn't keep out the sounds. I guess my mind was all shot to pieces."

"I got so bad that I had to have somebody with me to keep me from going crazy. I asked three friends to come to the station and play cards with me. A sergeant heard about it and had me suspended. The Police Board tried me and reprimanded me for playing cards."

"I tried to stick it out after that, but it was no use. It was worse than being in the penitentiary, I guess."

Under the administration of Chief of Police Campbell Gallagher was a detective. He was assigned to make cases against coal wagon drivers who started police to their destination. He made a record in this work that he was known as "Short-weight Gallagher."

In this employment he had no lack of exercise or companionship. All day he would follow coal wagons from their starting point to their destination. He made hundreds of arrests and his mornings were spent in crowded police courts.

With a change of police administration he was withdrawn from this sphere of great activity and exiled to O'Fallon Park.

Gallagher is 50 years old and lives at 123 North Twenty-second street. He says the Police Relief Association owes him $1000, but has not made a settlement.

Miss Patterson wanted to return to rescue other women, but the firemen would not let her. The other women jumped, and were not hurt.

Edward E. Allen's name does not appear in the St. Louis City Directory.

DENEEN DEFEATS LORIMER IN DEEP WATERWAY CONVENTION;
KAVANAUGH ATTACKS TAFT

Illinois Governor Has His Candidate Elected to Resolutions Committee.

LEGISLATION URGED

President of Organization Asserts Federal Executive Shows Partiality.

An exciting contest between Gov. Deneen and Senator Lorimer for control of the Illinois delegation to the deep waterway convention was the center of interest for 45 minutes at Friday's opening session of the two-days' gathering in the First Regiment Armory.

Deneen won when his candidate, Isham Randolph, who represents his policy of immediate waterway work in Illinois, was elected to the Resolutions Committee over Lorimer's candidate, Congressman Henry T. Rainey. Lorimer favors waiting until the Federal Government makes an appropriation before beginning to spend the proceeds of Illinois' $20,000,000 bond issue for river improvement.

The Illinois fight followed a similar contest in the Missouri delegation, in which David R. Francis supported Leo Rausser for Missouri member of the Resolutions Committee and had the satisfaction of electing him.

Gov. Hadley Is Delayed. Gov. Hadley, who was scheduled to make one of the opening addresses, was unable to arrive before Saturday, owing to the official count of the vote on State officers and amendments, now in progress. By his absence he missed the privilege of free taxicab rides, which was extended to the visiting governors and members of Congress Friday by the Columbia Taxicab Co.

Mayor Kreismann, the first of the scheduled speakers, was an early arrival and Mrs. Kreismann, who accompanied him, took her place in a box. The Mayor's address followed Archbishop Glennon's invocation and was almost as brief as the invocation. The hall, which seats 400, was fairly well filled.

President Kavanaugh, in beginning his address, said the delegates would number thousands and would represent millions. He then declared that the association, from its inception, had condemned the pork-barrel policy and insisted that each waterway be treated as a unit from its source to its mouth and developed, regardless of politics, as a business proposition.

"Within the last four years," he said, "public sentiment has changed, demands for waterway improvement have become nonpolitical and even the President, despite a growing indifference toward our great project and a favorable leaning toward his own river, has announced that hereafter no 'pork barrel' bill will receive his approval."

Freeless Waterway Workers. He said that those who doubted the strength of public sentiment on the waterways question should recall "the idea of November."

The capacity of the railroads, he declared, has been outrun. He then told how the association had succeeded in getting a favorable start on needed legislation and of President Taft's action.

"Thanks chiefly to the fidelity of men now present," he said, "the Sixty-first Congress, at its long session last winter, enacted a river and harbor bill superior to its predecessors in several respects, largely in that it contained a modest appropriation for digging with an unending Congress."

Coincident with the announcement by the Busch-Everett Co., that finds it impossible to pipe natural gas from the Caddo fields of Louisiana to St. Louis, the Laclede Gas Light Co., through C. L. Holman, vice-president and general manager, notified Mayor Kreismann, Friday, that the price of artificial gas would be reduced to 80 cents, net.

These important developments followed months of negotiations between the Laclede Gas Light Co., the Busch-Everett syndicate and the city officials. The Busch-Everett company, several months ago, made arrangements with the Laclede Gas Light Co. to distribute artificial gas in St. Louis at 50 cents a thousand cubic feet. It proposed to build a pipe line 550 miles long from its Louisiana fields to St. Louis.

In a letter to Councilman Schutts and Delegate Hildenbrandt, chairman of the Public Improvements Committee of the House and Council, President L. E. Deneen said Friday that the Busch-Everett engineers had reported that it was impracticable to pipe natural gas a distance of more than 300 miles.

Vice-President Holman of the Laclede Gas Light Co. wrote a letter to Mayor Kreismann last July offering to reduce the price of artificial gas to 30 cents, pending the piping of natural gas to St. Louis, provided the city would change the standard of lighting from a candle power to British thermal heat unit basis. An ordinance authorizing the change is now pending in the Municipal Assembly.

Kavanaugh Charges That Taft Delayed Waterways Plans

The Lake-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway, conditionally approved by a board of engineers, for which provision was made.

"The item was well intended and had the intent been carried out faithfully the critical point of our project would now doubtless be past. It is a bitter disappointment that we have to record at least a partial failure of this intent, through an official partiality first noted by some of us in last year's river trip.

"The President postponed appointing the board authorized in the act for many weeks, thus making it apparent that the board's report, in conformity with the act of Congress, must necessarily be hastily arrived at. The President also appointed men on this board who, the people feared, were unfriendly to the project.

"Thus, by indifference, the purpose of the legislation has been delayed if not thwarted. Surely the President misunderstands the meanings of that memorable river trip. Surely he misjudged the temper of the men of the interior, instead of the country at large. Our present need is for legislation so definite and specific that it will become effective, despite indifference and unfriendliness from any quarter, however exalted or however unexpected and unwarranted the opposition may be."

He said that many of the newly elected congressmen were chosen on progressive platforms and are aggressive men. Tradition, he said, would postpone further waterways appropriations for two years more, but tradition has been broken down.

Doesn't Speak of Depth. "You are business men of sound common sense," he said. "Why should not the St. Louis Convention at its first session adopt the policy of comprehensive waterway development already approved by the people and show its good faith by a specific provision for a deep waterway through the natural artery connecting the lakes and the gulf?"

Kavanaugh did not touch on the controversy as to whether the convention shall stand pat for a 14-foot channel or accept the Government engineers' nine-foot recommendation as a compromise. He is known to be strongly in favor of the 14-foot plan.

$1500 Is Donated. Secretary T. H. Lovelace and Treasurer George H. Monroe of Joliet then made their reports.

An Monroe of Joliet, who is treasurer of the association, arose to make his report, a check for $1500 was handed him by a representative of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

But for the check, Monroe said, the association would have been practically without funds. His report showed that the association expended $26,715.14 during the fiscal year ending Oct. 1, and on that date had a balance of $4082.20. Since Oct. 1 the association has spent all its money except $27.52. The $1500 raised the balance to $1827.52.

The Auditing Committee, named at the close of the morning session, consists of Thomas R. Wilkinson of Burlington, Ia., A. Q. Rule of St. Louis and James F. Warren of Memphis.

"Do We Stand Pat on Fourteen Feet?" was the question displayed on a banner hung over the speakers' stand.

New Orleans boosters for the Panama Exposition of 1912 were among the first at the hall and a leaflet setting forth the New Orleans argument was placed in every seat. President Kavanaugh has declared himself against an endorsement of either New Orleans or San Francisco by the convention.

An automobile ride for the wives of delegates was arranged for the afternoon and theater parties for the night. Free admission of the delegates to the Century, Garrick, Princess, Columbia, American, Imperial, Haywards, Standard and Gayety theaters has been arranged, and coupons were distributed to the delegates entitling them to admission.

Col. John L. Martin, master of ceremonies, was a conspicuous figure in his familiar capacity as unofficial sergeant-at-arms. He devised the plan of dividing the delegates according to the relative position of their homes and the Mississippi River. The central side of the Army represented the river. Those from states west of the river sat south of the aisle and those from states east of the river sat north of it.

Michael J. McEnnis of Kirkwood, who presided over a great waterways convention in St. Louis in 1882, and who is the oldest delegate to the present convention, was on hand early.

The Rev. Andrew Gray of Pekin, Ill., an Episcopal rector, wearing the shawl of an English vicar, was an early arrival and announced that he would stand pat for 14 feet.

A delegation of 100 from Chicago arrived on an early train and most of its members got from Hotel Jefferson to the Army in time for the opening.

Dr. W. J. McGee, who became noted in St. Louis in 1904 by his queer way of writing his name and by the queer people he brought from distant and unheard-of lands for the World's Fair, is a delegate. He is now a "water" expert in the Department of Agriculture at Washington. He said he did not know whether he would address the convention.

Kavanaugh Announces Program. President Kavanaugh on arriving at the Army gave out the program for Saturday's session. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee of St. John's Methodist Church will deliver the invocation. Lyman E. Cooley of Chicago, chief engineer of the association, will then deliver an address on the engineering features of the project.

In the afternoon Gov. Sanders of Louisiana and Robert M. Lynch of California will speak. The committee on nominations and resolutions will report and the convention will adjourn at 4 p. m. At 8 p. m. there will be an illustrated address on transportation in all countries by O. P. Austin, Chief of the Bureau of Statistics. At 9:15 there will be a smoker and vaudeville program, the closing feature of the convention.

The governors were seated on the platform when the convention opened. They were Gov. Deneen of Illinois and Gov. Sloan of Arizona. Others on the stage were Archbishop Glennon, Congressman Bartholdt, Geo. John W. Noble, George W. Parker, Norman J. Colman and Mayor Kreismann all of St. Louis, Dr. W. J. McGee of Washington, George H. Monroe of Joliet, Ill., R. R. Bourland of Peoria, Thomas Wilkinson of Burlington, Ia., and John Fox, director of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress of Washington, D. C.

David R. Francis was seated with the Missouri delegation. About 1000 delegates were seated in the hall when the convention opened. Gov. Sloan told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Arizona was interested in the deep waterways because it would enable the mining enterprises of that State to get cheaper freight rates on machinery. He said the railroad rates were excessively high. Chauncey Ives Filley, former Mayor of St. Louis and one of the original deep-waterway advocates, sat in one of the front seats. A gray hat, of the type he made famous when he was the Republican boss of St. Louis and Missouri, rested on his knee.

Lorimer and Deneen have long been political enemies and the recent bribery scandal in the Illinois Legislature only helped to widen the breach between them.

Selph said Friday he was standing in the Jefferson Hotel lobby when Lorimer approached Deneen with outstretched hand, exclaiming: "I'm glad to see you, Governor."

Deneen responded with a similar remark, and they parted.

ADMINISTRATOR APPOINTED FOR MYERS' ESTATE

Redlands Mansion Is in Charge of Tobacco Man's Woman Secretary.

SHE IS IN MOURNING

Fact That Father Was Erecting $90,000 Building Basis for Daughter's Suit.

REDLANDS, Cal., Nov. 25.—The fact that George S. Myers, St. Louis tobacco magnate, had under construction in Kansas City a $90,000 building is made one of the main reasons for the appointment of a special administrator in the suit filed by his three daughters to break his will, they charge, that he was of unsound mind when he made the will, and that another, executed later, has not been found.

The suit was filed at San Bernardino Cal., county seat of this county. The mansion in Redlands is now in charge of Miss Clara Reckewald, a young woman, who acted as Myers' secretary and housekeeper. She was attached to him, as were all those dependent on him, and went into deep mourning after his death last August.

Had Violent Temper. The only evidence of eccentricity on Myers' part was his violent temper. He often motored from his home to the town, accompanied by Miss Reckewald or an attendant, and sometimes he flew into unprovoked rages over trivial matters.

Mrs. George Myers Coppell, mother of George Myers Church, Mrs. May Myers Cravens and Mrs. Robert Babcock are the daughters seeking to set aside the will. Under its terms the income from the estate is to be divided equally among the daughter and Mrs. Coppell's son, and at the death of any heir that part of the income is to be divided equally among the heirs.

John S. Cravens, a son-in-law, was appointed special administrator by Judge Oster at the request of J. W. McKinley, a Los Angeles lawyer representing the estate. He is now in charge of the estate.

Will Tie Up Estate. The contest will tie up the estate for many months. The suit is friendly, the purpose of all being according to press dispatches, being to procure a division of the estate instead of leaving it in trust.

Two heirs not mentioned in previous dispatches are Mrs. Jane Ledford and Miss Hannah Lee of St. Louis, each of whom is to receive $25 a month during her lifetime. If either dies, $50 a month is to be paid thereafter to the survivor.

The will provides that should Myers and Babcock be unwilling to act as executor, the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank shall have that duty. The St. Louis and St. Louis County real estate cannot be sold, under the will, but must be held in trust, the income only to be used.

Miss Reckewald's mother and sister, who live in the East, are with her here. The relatives are at their homes in Denver and in the East.

CONTRACTOR TELLS HOW WIFE BEAT HIM IN THEIR HOME

He Declares That He Was Saved by Their Fourteen-Year-Old Child.

Old Child.

William H. Bruggeman, a contractor, built a flat for his wife and then, when she was dissatisfied, erected a $10,000 dwelling for her at 3408 South Grand avenue, he alleged in a divorce petition filed Friday in the Circuit Court. His reward, he said, was to be addressed by her as "You Dutchman."

Two weeks ago, he alleges, she asked him to paint a radiator, but he had an injured arm and could not. She refused to cook for him, he declares, and Monday knocked a cigar from his mouth, hit him on the shin with a bottle, banged him with a tin bucket and scratched him. He was rescued, he says, by their 14-year-old daughter Pearl. Then he left home.

Bruggeman also filed suit for a partition of property which is owned by himself and his wife in equal shares, according to his petition.

MORE THAN EVER

Increased Capacity For Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental power to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of ordinary coffee. An Illinois woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely dependent; had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less dependent, and the desire to be active again. I showed a proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before.

"GREEK-FACED GIRL" WHO WILL PLAY IN "QUO VADIS"

Naomi Weston Childers, a young St. Louis actress now widely known as "the girl with the Grecian face," will portray the role of Lydia in the presentation of the powerful drama, "Quo Vadis," by St. Leo's Dramatic Club at St. Leo's Hall, Twenty-third and Mulhally, Nov. 27.

Her work will possess an unusual interest owing to the fact that she will give her own conception of the part, never having seen it played by others. In the court scene of the play's story, Miss Childers will appear in a Grecian dance, her classic beauty and grace of movement promising to make this event an especially attractive feature.

Miss Childers has been seen in a number of important local amateur entertainments and is an uncommonly clever young player. It is not unlikely that she will sign contracts with a New York manager in the near future that will realize her ambition for a professional stage career.

Comes to Arkansas, Anyway. HARRISBURG, Ark., Nov. 25.—Judge J. W. Black of Hornersville, Mo., who gained fame by petitioning the Missouri Legislature to cede Dunklin County, that State, to Arkansas when Missouri was carried by Roosevelt, has bought a farm here and is moving his family here.

The servants at the Lee home identified McGee positively as the so-called painter who had accosted him and Judge Hitchcock refused to set aside the revocation of the parole.

In effect, this was a sentence of two years for McGee for robbing the Lee residence.

McGee and his mother declared that his arrest was due to persecution on the part of Special Officer Degan, and that he could prove an alibi. Less than 24 hours before the Lee home was robbed, Judge Hitchcock had paroled the youth from a two-year sentence for burglary. He revoked the parole after his arrest, and his mother employed a lawyer to ask him to set aside the revocation, believing her son to be innocent.

McGee introduced as a witness his sister-in-law, Mrs. Peter McGee of 907 Hickory st., who said he was at her home while the Lee residence was being robbed. She said he called her half-brother, then McGee took the witness stand he also said he was at his sister-in-law's home, but he did not mention the painting of the bathtub as one of the things he did there.

TRAINS FROM THE MEXICAN CAPITAL ARE UNMOLESTED

Rioting Declared to Have Ceased in All Parts of the Republic—Story That Madero, Self-Proclaimed Provisional President Was Wounded Is Doubtful.

2 AMERICANS KILLED; TRACKS ARE DAMAGED

Report Is That Reyes Will Remain in Paris and When Insurrection Ends, Places Will Be Made for Him and for Cassassus in Cabinet.

By Associated Press.
EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 25.—All is quiet between El Paso and Mexico City, when the train came through, which reached El Paso from Mexico City this morning, according to the passengers. All the telegraph wires were in operation and there was no fighting.

Passengers, who come from Parral, declared there was no fighting there yesterday and the troops reported as passing through Toluca to quell rioting at Parral merely were reinforcements and were not for maintaining order at Parral.

These passengers brought the report that an American named Storey was wounded in the Parral fighting Monday at the same time that Thomas Lawson, an American, accidentally was killed. Information to the El Paso Herald this morning from along the border of Sonora was that Hermosilla, Guaymas and Matamoros were quiet. A message from Canas said quiet prevailed there where 55 soldiers were considered sufficient, 40 of the garrison of 125 having been sent to Naco, Sonora.

No Arms to Indians.
The story of revolutionists of Canas furnishing arms and ammunition to Yaqui Indians is nothing but a hoax, declared the Herald correspondent.

Revolutionary leaders in the city doubt the truth of the report that Francisco I. Madero, claimant of the presidency of Mexico, was wounded in the fighting about Guerrero yesterday. They declare the insurrectionist leader was in another part of the State, and that he soon will appear at the head of his forces.

It was reported last night that he had been severely wounded in a fight between his forces and 200 rurales and cavalry commanded by Col. Fuentes and Lieut. Nicanor Valdez. The advice came from a resident of Guerrero. According to the report Madero led his force when federal troops engaged them. The engagement was fierce for a time.

Madero was seen to fall from his horse. He was carried to the rear, and his force fell back. The federal troops are reported to have followed up their advantage, scattering the rebels to the hills.

New Governor for Chihuahua.
It was announced unofficially at Juarez today that Alberto Terrazas, millionaire politician and business man, has been appointed Governor of the State of Chihuahua.

The plan to have Gov. Juan Sanchez resign and accept a foreign mission is said to have been hastened by the insurrection. Terrazas is one of the most powerful men in Mexico and is a close adviser of President Diaz. He

Blood-Poisoning

Caused Many Sores, but Victim Was Soon Able to Work.

The great efficacy of Hood's Sarsaparilla in cases of blood-poisoning is shown by many convincing testimonials as by the following: "My husband suffered from blood-poisoning, and sores spread all over his right hand. Two fingers of his left hand were also affected. He tried all sorts of ointments, but they failed. At my suggestion he took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was soon able to work."—Mrs. Jane Colgan, Lawrence, Mass.

Remember there is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

PROMOTER, BROTHER ARRESTED WITH HIM, AND ACTRESS FIANCEE

EUGENE H. BURR.

SHELTON C. BURR.

is a brother-in-law of Minister of Foreign Affairs Enrique Creel. Railway Tracks Torn Up.
A telegram received over the Government lines at Juarez early today from Jimenez says that a band of 50 insurgents drove off a section gang working on the railroad between Parral and Santa Barbara and tore up about 50 yards of track. They tried to bend the rails to make them useless, but were frightened away.

The damage is being repaired. It is thought that the purpose of the insurgents was to prevent the transportation of troops over the road from Parral. A number of American-owned mines are at Santa Barbara.

The invaders, it is said, were not armed, and fled when a construction crew appeared, knowing that it would not take long to bring the railroads to the scene.

Troops Go to Border to Guard American Interests.
PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 25.—Although everything is reported quiet along the border, Gen. Thomas departed with Co. B of the Eighteenth Infantry for Naco, Ariz., early today. There is a rumor that the entire garrison of three companies will start from Fort Whipple for the border Saturday. Army officers said that the cavalry at Fort Huachuca also has been ordered to the border.

In view of the present situation this movement of troops is considered as a precautionary measure in order to protect American interest, should any outbreak occur.

CHANGE IN DIAZ CABINET LIKELY

Places Planned for Cassassus and Reyes to Placate Rebel Forces.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—Gen. Manuel Gonzalez Cosío, Minister of War, said today:

"The Government is absolute master of the situation at every point in Mexico. The so-called revolutionists have now resolved themselves into mere bandits and outlaws, and are fleeing from the troops everywhere."

It might have a fight at Guerrero, but the disturbers fled to the mountains before the troops arrived and are now being chased by the soldiers. The reported seizure of the railroad by outlaws is a ridiculous lie.

Order to Suppress Outbreaks.
The War Department's news is that all is quiet everywhere in the republic. We expect no more outbreaks anywhere, but should any occur they will be suppressed with the utmost dispatch and severity."

American flags were flying in this city yesterday on account of Thanksgiving, and Americans and Mexicans are the best of friends. Teams of mixed nationalities played baseball, polo, bowling and football. The Mexicans here seem to be trying to make Americans forget the recent anti-American foolishness on the part of the students.

Felados prison is filled with the disturbers, who, doubtless, have been punished with the utmost severity and without unnecessary delay.

Rumors are current among bankers and business men in close touch with the Government that there will be changes in the Cabinet, when everything is quiet and normal again.

Vice-President Corral, who is sick, is reported to be suffering from cancer of the stomach. His illness may demand a trip to Europe for treatment by specialists, in which event he would resign.

Rumors add that Cassassus, former Ambassador to the United States, and Gen. Reyes, at present in Paris, will have places in the readjusted Cabinet.

Would Placate Opposition.
Business men say that the changes will placate the undoubtedly large party in the country who are not satisfied with the present personnel of the Cabinet and will prevent demonstrations in the future, in the event of the death of the President or other occurrence which might serve as a pretext.

It will be best for business interests, business men say, to give a restful portion of the community evidence that the other party has representation in the country's affairs. Nothing will be done, however, until the present manifestations cease.

BOY HUNTER KILLS COMPANION

Fatal Accident Occurs Near Marshall, Mo.

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 25.—Tom Morlon, aged 16 of this county, accidentally was shot and killed yesterday by Lawrence Leyhe, aged about 14 years, son of L. F. Leyhe, senior partner of the Leyhe-Downing Clothing Co., while the boys were hunting together.

The gun was discharged while the boys were going through a cornfield.

Capital Tax Will Continue.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 25.—Gov. Donaghey announces that the State Capital tax will be continued for two years. He estimates that before the next Legislature adjourns there will be a deficiency of $100,000 in the building fund, and that it will require $400,000 to complete the building and grounds.

Build Health Against the Cold

Build tissue, build nerve force; build appetite and you will probably ward off a cold altogether. But if you do take to sneezing this coming winter, you will not be serious, if you are in good condition and can rid yourself easily of the germs. Build healthy tissues that will resist the cold bacteria. Build strong nerves that rally to the support of the system. Build heart and lung force that will supply the nourishing blood and oxygen, and thus make yourself immune to the deadly colds of winter.

Build? How? With systematic treatment by the wood-rail remedies combined in

Fruitola and Traxo

From California, the Land of Health and Sunshine

Fruitola treats the system of all impurities; Traxo restores appetite, builds tissue, and strengthens the whole system.

Fruitola cleanses without griping, pain or weakness. Traxo stimulates and re-enforces the purified system.

One bottle of Fruitola will work wonderful results; it rids the stomach of undigested food, and easily and naturally relieves the bowels of all obstructions.

If these obstructions lie in the intestines, there is danger of the much dreaded appendicitis. Fruitola soothes the bowels, relieving the congestion and inflamed condition.

Get yourself in shape now for the long drag of winter work and its various demands. If you are already a "victim" of indigestion, constipation, irregular bowels or kidneys, let Fruitola and Traxo put matters right at once, as it has for thousands of others. If you have lost appetite, let food fall to you, or your nights fail to rest you, if you feel your grip on things slipping, let Fruitola and Traxo, and see that it will do, and read letters from others as to what it has done for such sufferers.

FEDERAL ARREST ENDS ROMANCE WITH SHOW GIRL

Shelton Burr, Young Oil Promoter, Had Expected to Marry Mrs. Gillette.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The trouble caused by the Burr brothers, Shelton and Eugene, has not been entirely of a financial nature. The arrest of Shelton Burr has brought sorrow to a pretty young woman who believed until she read of the arrest that her marriage to Burr and a life of affluence thereafter were two of the certain things of her existence.

Federal officers led by Postmaster General Hitchcock raided the offices of the company, arrested the Burr brothers and sent them to the Tombs, charged with having induced the public out of millions of dollars by the sale of worthless stocks. Nearly all the sales were made by advertising campaigns conducted through the mails.

Mrs. Myrtle Gillette and Shelton Burr expected to have been married soon, but the Federal authorities have ended their dream.

Mrs. Gillette lives with her mother, Mrs. Williams, at 242 West Eighty-sixth street, but it was not until friends, who had learned of the difficulties of the Burr brothers, began to ask Mrs. Williams whether the match would be broken off that the mother was apprised of her daughter's engagement.

Friend Tells of Romance.
The story of the first meeting between Burr and Mrs. Gillette was told by Miss Irene George, who has known both for a long time.

"It was at the Hotel Knickerbocker the latter part of last May," said Miss George at the Hotel Richmond yesterday. "We were dining there with a party of friends and Mr. Burr was at a nearby table. He was attracted by Myrtle's beauty and asked a mutual friend for an introduction."

"From that night Mr. Burr began to pay Myrtle marked attention. They were seen everywhere together and for months dined every night at the Knickerbocker or at Churchill's. They almost never walked because Mr. Burr's big gray automobile was always at hand."

Two years ago Mrs. Gillette, then Miss Myrtle Williams, married Harold Gillette, a wealthy young Philadelphian. Mr. Gillette died less than a year ago. The young widow came to New York and was employed by Henry S. Harris as a show girl with the "Sky Lark" company. She attracted the attention of Ben Teal, who staged the piece, by, as Teal expresses it, her "smart" appearance. She only played that one engagement, although engaged for another production.

BUY RUBEROID ROOFING AND—BUY RIGHT

The oldest roofing on the market—laid on roofs nineteen years ago, and still there—sold in every country in the world—subject to the fiercest competition—trailed by over three hundred imitators, many of whom copy its very name as closely as possible—Ruberooid Roofing still dominates the roofing market in the quality of its product and the volume of its sales.

You can identify genuine, lasting Ruberooid Roofing by the large trademark picture of the Ruberooid man, shown herewith, which appears on the outside of each roll.

Ruberooid Roofing, manufactured by The Standard Paint Co., is made of wool felt. Its value lies in the gum with which it is saturated and coated so that the gum and wool in combination make Ruberooid the most lasting roof covering known. This gum contains no rubber and no oil. It is absolutely waterproof. It keeps its life and does not crack or dry out. It resists gases and acids more than any other roof covering. It is tasteless and odorless and water collected on it can be used for drinking purposes. It is an insulator and so keeps a house warm in winter and cool in summer. Ruberooid Roofing is highly fire-resisting.

Another advantage of Ruberooid Roofing is that it is also made in permanent colors of RED and GREEN. The reason Ruberooid colors are permanent is that they are not painted on—they are built into the fabric, and so cannot peel off.

The satisfaction Ruberooid Roofing gives in resisting temperature, moisture, chemical action and time, are the proofs of its supremacy, and are known to every man acquainted with roof covering. Our efforts are directed at guiding the consumer through the maze of imitation and enabling him to get RUBEROID ROOFING when he asks for it.

MUTINEERS WIN THEIR WAR AFTER BOMBARDING RIO

Brazilian Congress Grants
Every Demand of Revolt-ers, Including Amnesty, Higher Pay and Cessation of Corporal Punishment in the Entire Navy.

CAPTAIN OF WARSHIP IS KILLED IN BATTLE

Panic in Capital Subsidies
When Rebel Vessels Fail to Inflict Serious Damage; Insurrectionists Surrender
After Congress Yields.

By Associated Press.
RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 25.—The Government of Brazil today yielded to the mutineers.

Congress, in extraordinary session, voted to concede every demand of the mutineers yesterday, including general amnesty for the sailors, who, after killing as many of their superior officers as was necessary to place them in complete control, trained the guns of the warships on the capital.

What the effect will be on the discipline in the navy is a matter of some concern. The immediate effect is to give the sailors increased pay, shorter hours of service and less work through the repealing of additions to the crews, and to abolish corporal punishment in the fleet.

Following the action of Congress the mutineers went through the formality of surrendering and before noon today the city had resumed its normal activities and the public excitement had subsided.

While the revolt lasted the people of the city were panic stricken, fearing that the mutineers would make good their threat to demolish the capital.

Rebels Fought Great Britain.
It is doubtful, however, that they would have taken this step in any event because of the likelihood of complications with Great Britain. During the progress of the revolt James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, was the guest of Baron Rio Branco, the Brazilian Foreign Minister, and he would have been as likely as any one to suffer from a bombardment.

On the other hand, the mutineers patterned after the British subjects, who were on board several British subjects, who accompanied the vessel on its first trip home after its construction at Barrow-in-Furness, England.

At the outbreak of the trouble Sir
William H. D. Haggard, British Minister to Brazil, notified the Brazilian Foreign Office that any attempt of the loyal torpedo boats to destroy the revolting warships would be attended with danger to British subjects on board. It also is known that the Government intended to damage the bulwarks of its navy.

Message to the President.
The mutineers sent a message to the President, asking for the release of the Brazilian sailors, who were on board the Brazilian ship Bahia, and the release of the British sailors, who were on board the British ship Bahia.

The dispatch sent by the mutineers by wireless to President Fonseca, offering to surrender, read as follows:
"Repentant of the action, we committed in our defense, and for the sake of order, justice and liberty, we lay down our arms, trusting that amnesty will be granted to us. We will remain obedient to Your Excellency, in whom we have all our confidence."

Captain Killed By Rebels.
About 10 o'clock Tuesday night, as Capt. Neves, commanding the battleship Mina Gersa, came back from dinner on board the French training ship Duguy Trouin, he heard a violent uproar and a fusillade of shots. It was the crew of his vessel in revolt. Capt. Neves and two other officers resisted the sailors and were killed. One officer was mortally wounded and several sailors were killed. The mutineers' cry was "Long Live Liberty!"

The insurrectionary movement then broke out on board the other Brazilian cruisers, the battleship Sao Paulo, and the scout ship Bahia. All the officers having been landed, a plain sailor of the first-class named Jean Cavell took command of the squadron.
Communication was provided, provisions were requisitioned and a coal depot on the Isle of Iguazu was taken. Vessels were prevented from transporting coal destined for the French steamer Atlantique and the English ship Orona.

Send Demands to President.
The movement was declared to be without political significance. The mutineers sent a message by radiogram to President Fonseca, setting forth their demands for an immediate abolition of corporal punishment on board ship, an increase in their pay, according to the program submitted to Congress some time ago, and diminution of the work with which they are burdened by reason of the maintenance of incomplete vessels.

This statement added that a bombardment of the city and of other ships in the harbor would follow the refusal of the demands.

The Government refrained from replying to the ultimatum of the mutineers and a fire was soon opened by them upon the city. This continued at intervals all night. The inhabitants of Rio Janeiro were thrown into a panic by the suddenness of the attack.

Fisher Is Accused of Fraud in Realty Sales

total of $13,500, representing a quickly turned profit of $2340 for the promoters.
In addition, Robinson testified that the company received a commission of 5 per cent, or $675, from Hunter. In summing up this deal, Case quotes a judicial decision as follows:

"The principle that an agent for the sale of property cannot at the same time act as agent for the purchase thereof, or interest himself therein, and thus entitle himself to compensation from both vendor and vendee, is grounded on the inflexible declaration that 'no man can serve two masters.'"

Negroes Work in Hotel.
The referee asserts that, since this deal, Maupin has left $3000 of his money in the hands of the Fisher company and has collected no interest upon it.
Wright says that the negroes involved are employees at the West End Hotel, where Fisher lives. Concerning the negro Lyons, Referee Case reports:

"He knew nothing of the property, had no property or money, could do little more than sign his name and had no idea of the nature of the papers he was signing."

"Under this scheme," Case declares,
"Robinson was undoubtedly more loyal to his client Maupin than he was to his client Mrs. Rogers. The net result is that her estate may be required hereafter to foreclose the mortgages on the poorer lands and force their sales either at sums greatly below the mortgage debts, or the estate will be forced to take back the very property which was supposed to have been conveyed away."

Maupin never saw the lands. He relied entirely upon his friend Robinson.
Since the sale Maupin has allowed more than $3000 of his money to remain in the hands of Fisher's company. This indicates a secret arrangement of some kind between him and Robinson. "This is further indicated in Maupin's offer made in the defendant's petition to trade back the land and give up his profits."

Facts in the Case.
"To carry out his loyalty to Maupin and his disloyalty to Mrs. Rogers, Robinson concealed the true facts of the transaction from Mr. Wright, her executor."

Besides the three transactions related above, Case reports that Fisher, for Mrs. Rogers, sold a lot near Fifteenth street and Washington avenue to a straw purchaser, Mrs. E. M. Niederlander.

"However," the report states, "although an extensive inquiry was gone into at the hearing, there is no evidence to show that the defendants were the parties who really acquired the property, or that they received any profit from the sale other than legitimate commissions, or that the price obtained was less than the fair and reasonable market value of the property at the date of the sale."

Woman a Witness.
The referee reports that Fisher owns all of the stock of the Fisher Real Estate Co. except three shares. One share is owned by Robinson, one by Charles P. Linsen and one by Miss Matilda Mc-Laughlin, Fisher's confidential clerk.
She was an important witness at the hearing.

Regarding Mrs. Rogers, Case says:
"The evidence shows that she was a somewhat troublesome client. Owing, perhaps, to her illness, she was inclined to be contentious. She was constantly writing letters to her agents urging them to dispose of her property."

"Mrs. Rogers may have been unwise not to follow Fisher's advice to repair her Laclede avenue property and sell at a higher price, but he could not take advantage of her lack of wisdom without telling her the exact manner in which he expected to do so."

One-Half Was Profit.
"In this case, the defendants took one-half of the net profit on the resale of the property as the price of their disloyalty to Mrs. Rogers."

In conclusion, Referee Case makes the following recommendations:
"The referee recommends that judgment be given in favor of the plaintiff, and against the defendants jointly, and that the defendants be decreed to pay plaintiff on account of the Benton property the sum of $1654.96 with 6 per cent interest from April 1, 1910, plus $147.10 accrued interest; on account of the Laclede avenue property, the sum of $3121.25 with 6 per cent interest from March 24, 1906, and $250 with 6 per cent interest from May 20, 1908; and on account of the Dunklin County lands, the sum of $3697.91, with 6 per cent interest from July 27, 1908."

Fisher's testimony concerning the Dunklin County deal is as follows:
The questions being put by C. B. Williams, attorney for Wright:

Q. On Feb. 25, 1908, when the contract was signed, you didn't have any money in your office for Mr. Maupin? A. We had a paper which belonged to him.

Q. Did you tell Mrs. Rogers that the man who had purchased the property had no ready money? A. I told her nothing about that.

Takes Upward "Parties."
Q. You say here in a letter that "I have assured the parties whom I am trying to interest that they will get a warranty deed." Who were the parties?
A. Well, I think that is Maupin.

Q. Why do you say "parties"? A. Well, there was Maupin and there was Arthur Lyons. No, there was only one party. That might have been a mistake. I won't say that I said "parties."

Q. At that time, of course, you had told Maupin that you would carry out his wishes and have the land taken in the name of a dummy? A. Mr. Robinson told him.

Q. Do you think the word "parties" is another stenographic error? A. Yes, sir, I find many of them.

Q. Had you assured Maupin that he would get a warranty deed from Mrs.
Rogers the most glowing account I could

of the situation. She was a very sick woman, and I wanted to give her the very best news I could. I would forthwith sit down and write to her, right
or wrong."

Robinson, on the same subject, stated
on the witness stand:

"Every day or so Fisher would come to me and say: 'What will we say to Mrs. Rogers today? She is a sick woman and I must say something to her.' He would run back to his desk and write her a letter as long as a fiddler's
dream."

Fisher testified that he was negotiating with an attorney named Walker for the sale of the tract. "There were half a dozen persons Robinson was dickering with," said the witness. "I didn't dicker with anybody but Walker. Walker was my persimmon."

Fisher Is Silent.
Fisher declined to discuss the case Friday.

Rogers? A. The land was being sold to Maupin. He would get such a deed as Lyons would make. I had already explained that the title would be held
by a figurehead.

Q. The party whose name you inserted in the deed was Lyons? A. All the deeds Mrs. Rogers signed were made to Lyons.

Q. And you had previously told her that the party whose name would be in the deed would be a dummy? A. Yes,
sir.

Q. Why do you say in a letter to Mrs.
Rogers that "Lyons happens to be an actual bona fide buyer"? A. Well, I was afraid that possibly in the end I wouldn't be able to get a man who would be able to put up the money.

Q. Mrs. Rogers had supposed that
Lyons would be a dummy? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then why do you tell her that he is a bona fide buyer? A. He represented an actual bona fide buyer. She knew I was dealing it to a figurehead.

Q. But she would suppose from this that Lyons was an actual purchaser?
A. Well, no, I don't think so.

Q. Why did you write her that he was an actual bona fide buyer? A. I don't know why I did that. It may have been a slip of the pen. I can't explain every word I write.

Q. In another letter to Mrs. Rogers
you say: "Mr. Lyons has made two trips to Dunklin County and is not so enthusiastic now as he was at the start."
Now, Lyons never went to Dunklin County? A. He never did.

Q. Why did you say he went to Dunklin County? A. I never made that statement.

Q. Is that an error? A. Yes, sir.
My stenographer made that error.

Q. Is it also a stenographical error
when you say: "He is not so enthusiastic now as he was at the start?"
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Lyons had never spoken of going to Dunklin County? A. I don't suppose he knows there is a Dunklin County.

Lyons a Dummy.
Q. Was Lyons a dummy? A. Yes,
sir.

Q. Was it necessary to tell her that Lyons was the actual buyer of the property? A. Well, I felt this way:
When she knew that there was a man present who could put up $1650 she would know that he was not only a dummy, but an actual dummy.

Q. Don't you think you could have acted in better faith with Mrs. Rogers? A. I did my best. I might do many things differently if I had them to do over.

Q. On Feb. 24, 1908, you sold 1030 acres of this land to Mr. Hunter? A.
Yes, sir.

Q. The deed was made from Lyons to Hunter? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the price at which you sold the land was $1250 an acre? A. Yes, sir.

Q. An advance, then, of $3 an acre over what you sold them to Lyons for? A. Yes, sir.

Mrs. Rogers Was Ill.
Regarding his frequent letters to Mrs.
Rogers, Fisher testified:

"I would say to Robinson, 'How are you progressing?' And he would say that he hoped to get a good proposition and he might mention the name of a man.
I would sit down and write to Mrs.
Rogers the most glowing account I could

woman, and I wanted to give her the
with sit down and write to her, right
or wrong."

Robinson, on the same subject, stated
on the witness stand:

"Every day or so Fisher would come
to me and say: 'What will we say to Mrs. Rogers today? She is a sick woman
and I must say something to her.' He would run back to his desk and write
dream."

Fisher testified that he was negotiating with an attorney named Walker for
the sale of the tract. "There were half
a dozen persons Robinson was dicker-
ing with," said the witness. "I didn't dicker
with anybody but Walker. Walker was my persimmon."

Fisher Is Silent.
Fisher declined to discuss the case Friday.

Rogers? A. The land was being sold to Maupin. He would get such a deed
as Lyons would make. I had already explained that the title would be held
by a figurehead.

Q. The party whose name you inserted in the deed was Lyons? A. All the deeds Mrs. Rogers signed were made to Lyons.

Q. And you had previously told her that the party whose name would be in the deed would be a dummy? A. Yes,
sir.

Q. Why do you say in a letter to Mrs.
Rogers that "Lyons happens to be an actual bona fide buyer"? A. Well, I was afraid that possibly in the end I wouldn't be able to get a man who
would be able to put up the money.

Q. Mrs. Rogers had supposed that
Lyons would be a dummy? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then why do you tell her that he is a bona fide buyer? A. He represented
an actual bona fide buyer. She knew I
was dealing it to a figurehead.

Q. But she would suppose from this
that Lyons was an actual purchaser?
A. Well, no, I don't think so.

Q. Why did you write her that he was an actual bona fide buyer? A. I don't know why I did that. It may have been a slip of the pen. I can't explain every word I write.

Q. In another letter to Mrs. Rogers
you say: "Mr. Lyons has made two trips to Dunklin County and is not so enthusiastic now as he was at the start."
Now, Lyons never went to Dunklin County? A. He never did.

Q. Why did you say he went to Dunklin County? A. I never made that statement.

Q. Is that an error? A. Yes, sir.
My stenographer made that error.

Q. Is it also a stenographical error
when you say: "He is not so enthu-
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Lyons had never spoken of going to Dunklin County? A. I don't suppose he knows there is a Dunklin
County.

The Merits of Corinne Shoe

AND the merits alone are responsible for their being worn by thousands of St. Louis women. It is a well-known fact that once Corinne Shoes are worn, the wearer seldom buys another kind unless a much more expensive shoe is desired. We do not claim Corinne Shoes are as good as others that sell for $5.00 or $6.00, but we do claim that Corinne Shoes embody the same style characteristics that are often used in much more expensive footwear. Speaking of quality, however, we do claim that Corinne Shoes are made of better materials, and will consequently wear better than any other woman's shoes that you can buy at $3.50 or $3.00. (Main Floor.)

"Toytown" Will Be Formally Opened Tomorrow

Come and Bring the Children to See This Wonderful World of Make-believe

The greatest exposition of "Playthings" ever assembled in the city of St. Louis—A real live Santa Claus to receive the Children—picture books given FREE. (Fifth Floor.)

"Toytown" on the fifth floor of the Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co. has come to be known as a very interesting sight to the children of St. Louis—each year they have attended its formal opening and experienced new thrills—each year has witnessed its wonderful progress. "Toytown" keeps fully abreast with the times, and frequently is a little in advance.

The joy the children experience in viewing this complete world in miniature cannot be measured. We can but get a slight idea by recalling what pleasure such a sight would have given us in our childhood days.

"Toytown" is indeed a world in miniature—every nationality, color and creed, every social caste from the heathen Billiken to the elegants of high society is represented in the truly cosmopolitan population. Among the thousands and thousands of articles that are bound to delight the little folks, the great Toy Circus in full parade will hold their undivided attention for as long as you permit them to linger. The wonderfully gilded circus wagons with all the trappings and attachments—the "wild" animals behind the bars, troops of elephants, camels, giraffes and other denizens of the forest, and then comes the fun-making clowns and trained donkeys. It is surely a sight they will revel in.

"Toytown" is a wonderful school of instruction—useful, interested little men and women are developed from idle, indifferent children. Another sight worthy of particular mention is the thoroughly equipped steam and electric trains in full operation. We urge you to come and bring the children.

Santa Claus will distribute very pretty toy books free to the children accompanied by parent or guardian.

IT WAS ECZEMA
IT WAS RINGWORM
 It Spread All Over His Head—If Touched It Could Not Bleed and Leave Raw Spot—Could Not Go to School—Spent $200, Still He Was Bald.
 Got Cuticura. In Six Weeks He Was Well and Had Growth of Hair.

"One day, when my boy was five years old, I noticed a sore on the top of his head. I was alarmed, so I called in Dr. and he said it was eczema. After treating it for a week it spread all over his head, so the doctor advised me to see a specialist in New York, by the name of —. He said it was a bad case of ringworm and recommended a treatment of his. We doctored with him a long while and spent about $200 and the boy's head was still bald. He had a disgusting looking little head. If you touched it it would bleed and leave a raw spot. All this time he was not able to go to school, although he was eight years old."

"Then an old druggist named — said, 'Why don't you take him to the — Hospital, as they have cured a young lady of the same trouble. They said they said the young lady's case had been different. So we decided to try the Cuticura Remedies ourselves. We got Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent and they gave our boy immediate relief with the first application and in a week water time he was well and had a growth of hair. Now he is fourteen and has a thick growth of hair than any other children. The doctor said he would be bald or he had would come out in white spots, and several doctors said to take the child to the incurable hospital. We had at least seven doctors and we received no benefit from any. Mrs. Harry J. Lee, Liberty Corner, N. J., Feb. 25, 1910.

OLEO LAW'S FATE RESTING ON A TUB IN A FEATHER BED

Highest Court Will Make Important Ruling on Incident in St. Louis.

DEALER IS CONVICTED

Search of House Disclosed Butter Receptacle Hidden in a Mattress.

By Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Out of the incident of a "butter tub" in a feather bed the Supreme Court of the United States is expected to evolve the law of the land relative to the retail trade in oleomargarine.

Some months ago John A. Ripper of St. Louis, who possessed a retail dealer's license to sell oleomargarine, was suspected of violating Congress' oleomargarine act of 1896. Revenue officers searched his residence. Upstairs, in a feather bed, was found an empty oleomargarine tub. It was alleged that the tax-paid stamp on the tub was intact, in violation of law. Mrs. Ripper said she had put the tub in bed when she saw the officers in the house. She said she did not know why she did it.

Indicted and Convicted.
 Ripper was indicted on a charge of having in his possession an empty oleomargarine package "the tax-paid stamp upon which he had willfully neglected and refused to destroy." He was also charged with having sold 24 pounds of oleo to the post hospital at Jefferson Barracks, when it was alleged that the law limited him in such sales to ten pounds. He was convicted on both charges and sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

He has appealed to the Supreme Court to review his case. Its decision as to granting a review is expected next Monday. On his behalf it is claimed the act of Congress may make it an offense to empty an oleomargarine tub without destroying the stamp thereon, but it does not make it an offense to have a tub with an undestroyed stamp upon it in one's possession. It is also claimed that a retail dealer may sell more than ten pounds of oleomargarine at one time to a customer.

ONLY ONE PERSON IS HURT IN FOUR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Three Collisions Occur in Which None of the Occupants Is Injured.

Automobiles owned by David Ralston of 3935 Delmar boulevard and Daniel D. Ostott of 3141 Fairmount avenue collided on Concourse drive in Forest Park Thursday. The machines were damaged $200 each, but the occupants were not injured.

William J. Lemp, president of the Lemp Brewing Co., drove his automobile into a carriage owned by Joseph Ring of 274 North Fourteenth street, in front of O'Fallon Park. Lemp and Ring were taken to the Angelus Street Police Station, but Ring declined to make a complaint.

The automobile patrol wagon of the Police Department was struck by H. H. O'Hara's automobile at Twenty-second and Market streets. A wheel was torn from the O'Hara machine, but the police machine was not damaged.

Theodore Copher, a negro, aged 17, was knocked down at North Market and Bacon streets by a machine driven by James McKee of the Washington Hotel. He was not badly hurt.

CHICAGO PASTOR MAKES PLEA FOR A SONG ABOUT FATHERS

Declares the One Who Earns the Living Should Be Recognized.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The Rev. Dr. Wm. E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational church, is offering a prize for the words of a hymn that will extol the virtues of "Father." He says if he can find such a hymn his church organist has promised to set it to music, and that he will have it sung in his church at regular intervals. He said:

"Our religious hymns are filled with songs to mothers and there are few military hymns such as 'Onward, Christian Soldiers,' and a few for those in peril of the sea,' but none for the fathers who have a living to earn and a family to support. To my mind the beatitudes of fatherhood are second only to those of motherhood. A man resists twice as much temptation as a woman, and when he is a Christian he is one all through."

R. Q. GRAY, ONCE ST. LOUIS DOCTOR, TAKES HIS LIFE

Former Practitioner in Cabanne Is Found Dead in San Antonio.

MOTIVE IS A MYSTERY

Last Letter Received by Dr. Tupper Told of Good Health and Prospects.

Dr. R. Q. Gray, 37 years old, who formerly was an assistant in the offices of Dr. Paul Y. Tupper, 429 Berlin avenue, and later practiced medicine in Cabanne, killed himself with a revolver in his apartments in the Center Hotel in San Antonio, news dispatches say. The body, fully clothed and with the right hand clutching a revolver, was found on the bed when a maid entered the room Thursday morning.

Dr. Tupper told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that he did not know Dr. Gray intended to leave the city. He received a letter from Dr. Gray, from a town in Mexico, but did not know that Gray had moved to San Antonio until the dispatch came announcing his death.

Dr. Tupper says that in his letter Gray spoke hopefully of his prospects and said he was in good health.

Attorney John E. Bishop was notified of Gray's death. A brother, Dr. Elsieha Gray, lives at California, Mo., where his father, also a physician, died a year ago.

HERE'S A CHANCE FOR GENIUS;

RICHARD CARLE NEEDS SONGS

Lyrics Accepted Will Be Used in His Show and Royalties Will Be Paid.

St. Louis amateurs who think they have talent as singers, dancers, faro-comedy actors, song writers or jokers are going to have a chance to show a real comedian what they can do.

Richard Carle, who opens at the Olympic Sunday night in "Jumping Jupiter," has announced that he is on a still-hunt for modest and unsuspected genius. On the Olympic stage from 2 to 4 p. m. Tuesday he will meet all those who desire to have their talents tried out.

Those who think they can sing well enough to go on the stage will be heard and Carle will tell them what he thinks of their voices and give them advice as to the best methods of training. Original songs which meet Carle's approval will be used by him in his show and the writer will receive the usual royalties.

Lyrics must be typewritten, on one side of the paper, and it will be necessary to submit only a violin score of melodies.

TAKES OFF SHOES IN COURT AND STARTS TO TAKE A NAP

It Took Two Marshals to Eject James Loftus When His Snooze Was Disturbed.

James Loftus called at the Dayton Street Police Court Friday to get his belongings, which the police took from him when he was arrested a few days ago, and he liked the surroundings so well that he decided to take off his shoes and stay awhile.

Seating himself on a bench in the courtroom, he removed his shoes and was curling up for a nap when Chief Deputy Marshal McElvey yanked him to his feet.

Loftus struck at McElvey. Deputy Al Bergman came to the rescue and Loftus was carried to the top of the 37 steps, which led to the street and Loftus did not stop until he was out on the sidewalk.

NOTE DENIES WOMAN KILLED HERSELF; POLICE INVESTIGATE

Husband Declares Wife Distracted His Attention, Then Fired Shot.

Benjamin Klein wept at the coroner's inquest Friday as he told how his wife, Katharine, shot and killed herself in their home, 1854 North Twentieth street, Thanksgiving eve.

"When I came home my wife had supper ready, but she said she didn't want to eat," he testified. "I thought she was moping and put her in a chair opposite mine at the table. Saying that she wanted to lie down, she went into the bedroom. 'Look,' she cried, 'the dog is on the table.' I turned to chase the dog away and the next instant I heard a shot. My wife frequently threatened to commit suicide. A month ago she fired a shot in our home while I was in the next room."

Deputy Coroner Carriere continued the inquest pending testimony of special officers assigned to investigate, after a synonymous letter had been received by the coroner in which it was hinted that Mrs. Klein did not shoot herself.

FRIEND WHO KNEW OF TRUNK MURDER MADE LEWIS FLEE

Frenchman Sought for Story of How He Stopped the Waiter's Wedding.

ROBBERY IS MOTIVE

Police Decide on This Theory After Making Investigation of Available Facts.

By Lensed Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—While police are hunting William Lewis as the murderer of Albert Callier, the French artist whose body was found a week ago sealed in a trunk, the mystery will not be solved until a countryman of the victim, who was also friendly with Lewis, shall have been found. This man, the detectives believe, was responsible for the disappearance of Lewis the day he was to have married Ellen Enright, a trained nurse.

This friend of Callier was known in French boarding houses as Henri d'Anare, an expert glass cutter and painter. He is said by the detective to have lived in poverty in 1902, but seemed well supplied with money two years later.

The two Frenchmen and Lewis had rooms in a cottage in the Bronx, and later Lewis and Callier rented furnished rooms from Mrs. Emil Alexander in West Sixty-third street. At the close of the summer of 1902 Callier disappeared and d'Anare was not seen in the neighborhood thereafter.

d'Anare fled to Lewis. After the disappearance of Callier Lewis moved to four places in two years and then settled at the home of Charles Cloudsley. It was in this place that d'Anare found Lewis on the day Lewis was to be married.

It has been established that the motive for the murder was robbery, as Callier showed to a friend a money order for $10,000 sent by Rene Callier, his brother, who owns mines in Sierra Leone, West Africa. Callier also showed this friend a check and a ticket for Havre, France. He has relatives in Normandy and intended to return there.

The police theory is that while Lewis was hiding the traces of his crime d'Anare visited his room and surprised the waiter in the act of packing newspapers around the zinc casket.

Lewis had no idea, the police say, of deserting his fiancée until the man who shared the murder secret sent him a letter which so far unnerved the waiter that Mr. and Mrs. Cloudsley had to aid him in packing his suit case. That afternoon Lewis either met d'Anare, the police believe and failed to settle with him or decided to flee. He made no effort to get the trunk he had left with Miss Enright.

HELEN BOYLE'S SONG MAKES MANY PRISONERS WEEP. Woman Who Helped to Abduct Willie Whitlaw Leads Penitentiary Service.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 25.—Helen Boyle, serving a sentence of 25 years in the Pennsylvania penitentiary for the kidnapping of little "Billy" Whitlaw of Sharon, Pa., 18 months ago, was the pianist at the Thanksgiving entertainment given for the convicts.

At the conclusion of the program she asked permission to sing a solo. It was granted, and she sang "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," while many of the prisoners wept. Later she declared she had a vision which convinced her that she would never pass another Thanksgiving day in the prison; that she would either be released or would die.

TWO SICKLY CHILDREN

Made Well by Vinol—Letters From Grateful Mothers.

"My little girl ever since her birth was frail and sickly, and nothing seemed to do her any good, until we tried your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say it will do all you claim for it in building up and strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.) New Haven, Conn.

Another mother of Chicago, Ill., writes: "My little girl was thin, run-down, pale and without any appetite. Vinol gave her a good appetite—she has rosy cheeks and has gained rapidly in flesh and strength."

"I cannot say too much in praise of Vinol for delicate, ailing children." We ask every mother of a frail, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it does not do all we claim.—Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.

CHICAGO SOCIAL LEADER ASKS 1500 TO MEET HER DAUGHTER

Debutante's List of Invitations Considered High Mark In Numbers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—While Chicago is far behind New York in population, as shown by the census, she has nearly four times the number of socially-elect, as was proved yesterday at the coming-out party which Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Chatfield gave for their daughter, Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor. What Ward McAllister, founder of New York's "400," would have said to an invitation list of 1500 can not be imagined. Yet such list was the one made out for the daughter of the Chatfield-Taylor.

This list sets the high mark for Chicago. Some gasped when it was known that 300 invitations had been issued for the ball which Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen gave Wednesday evening for their debutante daughter, Miss Louise Bowen, but as Mrs. Bowen has been prominent in philanthropy and included all her friends on her list, it was not so surprising as when it was known that Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, beyond whom there is no appeal in Chicago society, had decided that there were 1500 men and women in the city whom she desired her daughter to know.

AMBASSADOR AND MRS. KERENS GIVE A BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

VIENNA, Nov. 25.—The most brilliant Thanksgiving reception Vienna ever witnessed came to a close after midnight. Ambassador and Mrs. Kerens welcomed the entire American colony in the first of a magnificent suite of salons, decorated with flowers and flags. Especially beautiful was the staircase and reception hall of the Ambassador's palace, which have lovely dimensions.

Refreshments served in the dining room exactly resembled the supper at the Emperor's court balls.

Two dozen lackeys in powdered wigs, directed by powdered butlers, attended to the service. Mrs. Kerens was assisted in the reception by the Ambassador and by Consul-General Daniloff and members of the embassy.

Does this man look as if he were dying from heartburn and fermentation caused by indigestion—and had no appetite? Read what he says about it in his own words:

The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.
Gentlemen: I used to be troubled with a weak heart, also indigestion, fermentation of food, heart burn, loss of appetite—most everything I ate distressed me. For a short time I obtained relief from doctors and from the medicines my friends advised me to take; then I would become just as sick again, until a Doctor prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I began to take your medicine and it did me a world of good. When I began taking your Malt Whiskey I weighed 150 lbs., now I weigh 175 lbs., and can eat anything without being distressed. I have sent many bottles to friends of mine in the country who were troubled with indigestion and who have been cured by its use. It has been several years since I found relief myself but I always keep Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in my family for medicinal use.

428 East 149th St.
New York City.

Thousands of such cases are being cured every month. The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers or direct, $1.00 a large bottle.

A sale that makes it possible for you to wear elegant silk hosiery at less than good cotton hose would ordinarily cost. We purchased from America's leading silk hosiery mills their entire overstocks of strictly first quality hose & all their "mill runs," consisting of 680 dozen. Strictly all pure thread silk hose with pure silk or lisle garter top—double silk or lisle heel, toe & sole. The range of colors & styles is most comprehensive & includes solid grays, wines, greens, reds, tans, browns, royal, navy, purple, wistaria, lavender, myrtle & black. Included, also, are pure silk dropped stitch hose in every wanted shade.

To make this the biggest bargain event the men of St. Louis have ever participated in, we also include highest quality Silk Hose & French Lisle Hose mixed with silk, imported by Jos. H. Wilson of this city, whose stock we recently purchased, representing solid silks with self-silk clocks, jacquard stripes & silk embroidered figures. In this sale are Hose termed "seconds," because of very slight defects—the imperfections are scarcely noticeable & no greater, in most instances, than Silk Hose show after their first try-on. If you are planning an Xmas gift to one of the male members of the family, here is an opportunity to give something different & something he will highly appreciate—beginning Saturday, choice of any at, pair.....

CUPID ARBITRATES; GIRL KEEPS HEART BUT LOSES FINERY

Rabbi, Jeweler and Lawyer Act as Mediators in Courtship Controversy.

FIANCE REGAINS GEMS

Skrak Tells How He Proposed Nine Days After He Met Miss Rothman.

A board of arbitration composed of a rabbi, a jeweler and a lawyer, three persons who were presumed by their connection with the case to be more capable than others to judge of the eccentricities of Cupid, decided the engagement controversy of Fred Skrak, formerly a mechanical engineer for the Terminal Railroad at a salary of $50 a week, and Miss Esther Rothman, 1115 North Fifteenth street. He proposed to her nine days after he met her and, he testified, bought for her $1470 worth of jewelry and clothing.

The board met at the home of Rabbi Abramowitz, of the Fifteenth street synagogue. The other members of the board were M. Wittles, dealer in special courtship jewelry at his home at Sixteenth and Carr streets, and Attorney Dave Lahgan. Attending as witnesses were the parents, brothers and relatives of Miss Rothman and some friends of Skrak.

At the request of Skrak Miss Rothman brought before the arbitration court the jewelry and clothing which he had purchased for her.

The Official Verdict.
After Skrak had testified that he still loved the girl and wanted to marry her, and Miss Rothman testified that she no longer loved Skrak, the board decided that Miss Rothman might keep her heart, but that she should return to Skrak the jewelry and clothes.

Miss Rothman wept as she showed the following articles of jewelry across the table to Skrak: Two diamond rings, $165; one diamond pin, $125; pair of diamond earrings, $85; small diamond, $12; locket and chain with diamond setting, $35; two small diamond rings, $50; gold bracelet, $15; belt buckle with Canadian stones, $35.

Miss Rothman also surrendered a black beaver hat with a willow plume, which Skrak said had cost $30, and a set of furs for which he said he paid $25. Concerning silk dresses, coats and other garments which Skrak says he bought for Miss Rothman, the board made no decision.

"I only want the ones she has not worn," said Skrak. "The beaver hat and the set of furs I bought only a few weeks ago. The rest she may keep."

Skrak Repeats His Testimony.
Skrak says the following is the substance of his testimony before the Board of Arbitration:

"I came to St. Louis in June, 1908. At the house of a friend I met Miss Rothman and had a long conversation with her. She asked me where I lived and for whom I was working, and I gave her my card. Four days later I received a postal from her asking me to meet her at Twelfth street and Washington avenue.

"I met her. I thought I would like to have a wife like her. I was all alone in St. Louis. Five days later I proposed to her. On Nov. 2 I was formally engaged.

"We had a fine engagement party at which I gave her some jewelry. But Nov. 23 I had to leave for a seven weeks' trip for a railroad company. Before I left it was decided that I should send her my money so that we could save it together until June, when we should get married.

"After I got back she asked me to buy her a pair of diamond earrings and a diamond brooch and a dress. I didn't have the cash, so I got them on time payments. In June I sent her money to go to the country for three weeks, as she said she needed the outing. She told me she ought to have a new dress in a different pattern every couple of weeks after I got back. I thought she liked me so much that I thought nothing of the money.

"When I spoke to her about getting married she finally asked me if I would feel very bad if she didn't marry me after all. She argued that she was an American girl and that I had not been in this country long. I went to Rabbi Rosenfeld and Rabbi Abramowitz. Then she agreed, when I urged her, to leave the question of whether she should marry me to the Rabbi, the jeweler and the attorney."

Skrak says the decision of the board has not changed his love for her and that if she ever decides to marry him she can have the clothes and the diamonds back.

LOVE INDIAN ON WARPATH KILLS A MILLIONAIRE; FLEES

KINGMAN, Ariz., Nov. 25.—Dr. L. W. Gilbert, a California physician, who is supposed to be heir to a $1,500,000 estate in the isolated region of Gold Bug mesa, was killed by a Pima Indian by the name of Queto.

The Indian quarreled with the other members of his tribe and went on a lone warpath after whites. Dr. Gilbert was the first white man he met and he was shot down without warning. A reward had been offered for Queto's capture.

BULLET IN HEEL FAILS TO STOP HIM; HE'S SHOT IN LEG

Fugitive Is Victim of Clayton Marshal's Unerring Aim
With Revolver.

Marshal McBride of Clayton demonstrated Friday that he has one requisite of an officer—he can shoot straight. He shot a fugitive in the heel and, when that did not stop him, shot him in the leg.

John Hertling and John Kloss were arrested recently on a charge of peddling without a license. They were fined $10 and costs by Justice Wise Friday and did not pay. They were being taken to jail by Marshal McBride, when Kloss attacked the Marshal and Hertling fled.

Night Marshal Kennard held Kloss and McBride pursued Hertling. McBride fired in the air. Hertling continued to run and McBride shot him in the heel. He kept on running, with a limp, and McBride took good aim and shot him in the leg. McBride had him taken to jail and called a doctor.

For Seven Years Farmer's Record

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., Nov. 25.—Richard Dudd, a farmer, broke his collar bone while unloading with an obstreperous colt yesterday, thus maintaining an annual record for seven years of having suffered injury on the same day each year to mark his Thanksgiving. His last year's accident was due to the same colt. That time his rib was broken. Three years ago he was nearly killed by a fall from a barn.

OLE RELIABLE SAM TREED BY BUSCH'S HOUN' DOGS

With Mayor and Other St. Louisans As Guests, Brewer Gives Realistic Exhibition in Man-Hunting.

In an impromptu comic opera version of Uncle Tom's Cabin, August A. Busch, millionaire brewer, took the role of Simon Legree for the entertainment of a party of friends, including Mayor Kreismann, who went hunting with him at Jonesburg, Mo., Wednesday afternoon.

Busch has two fine bloodhounds in training on the farm of Les Ferguson. With him were the Mayor, Harry B. Hawes, Elmer A. Anheuser, F. H. Huebner, State Senator Drunert and George S. Johns when he went out to take a look at his man-hunters.

"These are great dogs," said Busch. "I can trail a man all the way across the State."

"I've heard that, but I never believed it," said Anheuser.

Each Declines the Honor.
"Well," replied Busch, "if one of you will volunteer to be chased I'll show you."

"Not on your life," answered each in turn.

Just then Busch caught sight of a negro coming down the country road.

"Hey, there, what's your name?" he called.

"Sam," said the darky.

"Well, come here, Sam."

"What all kind of dogs is them you got there?" asked Sam, with mingled curiosity and suspicion.

"Bloodhounds."

"Well, boss, I really don't think I got time to stop today," said Sam.

"Wait a minute; we want you to let these dogs follow your scent."

"Deed, boss, I ain't got a cent."

"I'll give you a dollar."

"Now, dat's a hundred cents, ain't it, boss?"

"Yes."

"Well, dem dogs got to run pretty fast if dey catch me with all dem money dey befo' Thanksgiving. How much start do I get?"

Sam Gets the Dollar Down.

Sam was told to let the dogs smell his clothing. He did this, but not until the dollar was paid in advance.

"Now," said Busch, "run down this road and through that cornfield and then across the meadow to a tree. We'll give you a good start."

After Sam was well on his way and out of sight the dogs were unleashed.

They rushed down the road, followed by Busch and his guests. Following the trail they turned to the left and beat through the cornfield.

When the members of the party came up the dogs were standing under a tree and looking up. Sam was up in the tree looking down.

"Call 'em off, boss, and don't let 'em on me again 'till I get a chance to spend dis dollar. I suttainly earned it," said Sam.

Busch's guests are now convinced that all they have read about the relentless bloodhound is true. Sam is the black hero of Montgomery County, as all of his racial brothers believe that he would have been torn to pieces by the dogs if he had not reached the tree ahead of them.

Busch says this is a mistaken idea and that bloodhounds seldom attack a man after tracking him down.

Superstitions of the Man Next Door

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Henry W. Fischer.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Publishing Co.
No. 11—Scandinavian Superstitions.

A GREAT many superstitions of the Scandinavian peoples may be traced to old heathen days, when Northern mythology peopled every tree and rock with good and evil spirits. From the Scandinavians we have taken the May pole, which in rural Sweden, Norway and Denmark is a fir tree denuded of its bark up to two feet from the top. Only the crown is left, for "under the bark the witches might hide."

The tree is made to look gorgeous by bunting and flags; and the boys and girls who prove most indefatigable at racing around the May pole "will enjoy good health all the year." For in days of old the dancing was a service rendered to the Goddess of Joy, who was expected to give her devotees health and happiness.

Christmas tree facts and fancies, also an inheritance from our Germanic forefathers, are too well known to bear repetition in this space. But it is rather remarkable that in Scandinavia a Christmas tree is considered "unlucky" unless there is among its other gifts a switch for the children. However, this switch is not used for chastisement, but for driving the youngsters, in playful style, around the tree and out of the house for a brisk run. More health regulations, it will be perceived—hence the name, "life switch."

The life switch is cut from the wood of the sorbus tree, once sacred to the god Thor, while the bark of the same tree is esteemed as a home remedy against some illnesses.

The tree worship of the ancient Germanic peoples may be responsible for the Scandinavian superstition that the original man grew on trees, and be it remembered that the idea antedates Darwin and Haeckel by many thousands years. The ash tree, in particular, is regarded with superstitious awe, for, according to the legend, the first man descended from the ash.

of the English, Irish and other nations regarding finger nails. The Scandinavians, since time immemorial, called them "carriers of disease"—a truth which even more intelligent folks are unacquainted.

To turn the finger-nail parings of the sick in the hollow of a tree, as they do in many parts of Scandinavia, and to expect this act to cure the invalid, is certainly a gross superstition, but the recognition of the finger nails as disease carriers partly atones for this nonsense. It is curious to observe that folks differing so widely in their general character as the Scandinavians and the Welsh subscribe to the same foolishness when it comes to cards. In Sweden and Norway, as in Wales, when a card player is continuously playing in bad luck, there is but one way to change this luck, namely, to rise and quickly turn his chair three times. Three, of course, is the perfect number and the turning of the chair is regarded as equivalent to the turning of the tables, which is at once a threat and an incantation to the god of chance.

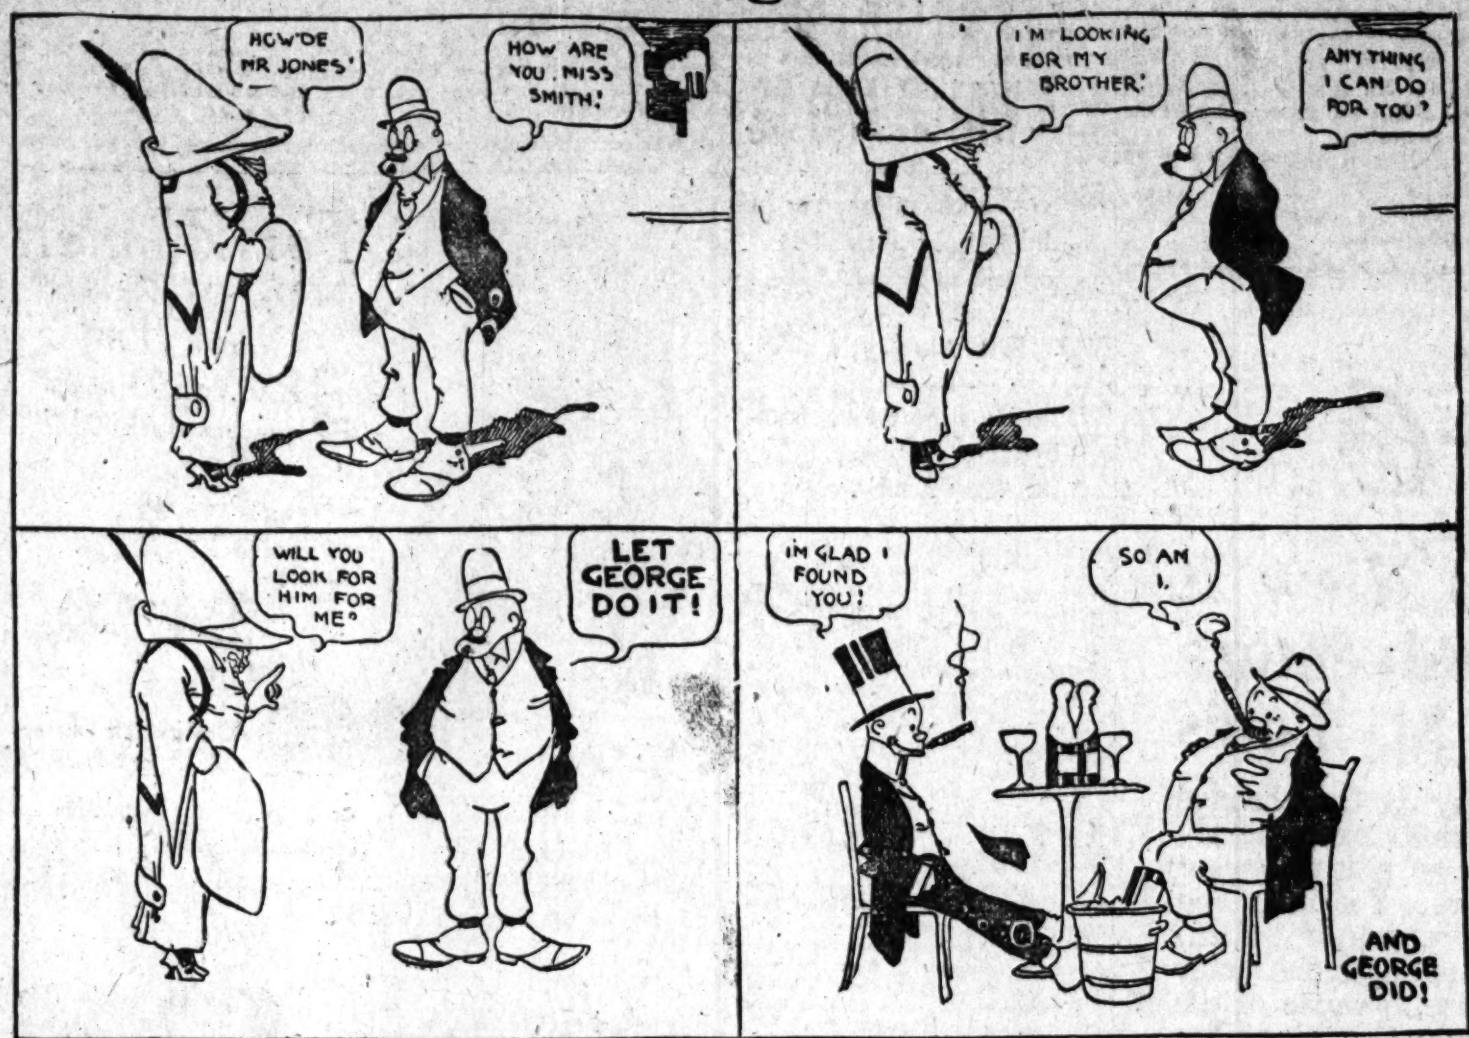

Her Preference.
THE pastor of a colored church in the South was rather too much inclined to be "high," introducing various innovations in his church that were not at all to the liking of the old-fashioned darkies. Among his "new" ideas, the pastor had arranged for stained glass in the church windows. This he was showing in triumph to one old woman parishioner, when he asked how she liked it. "It's shore beautiful," the old lady was forced to admit, "but 'deed an' 'deed, sah, I prefers de glass jest as God made it!"—Lippincott's.

Why He Failed.
SEYMOUR: There are 60 chicken magazines published in this country. Alphy: I know there are those publications were the cause of my brother-in-law's failure in the egg business. Seymour: How was that? Alphy: Why, he subscribed for them all and it took him so long to read their contents that he could never find time to feed his hens.—Chicago News.

American Husbands Love and Matrimony Most Comfortable

Dr. Langworthy Says the Housewives of Our Land Make Best Homes—Reported for the Post-Dispatch.

By Marguerite Moers Marshal.

THE standard of home comfort is higher in America than anywhere else in the world. And the great mass of American women are as true homemakers and home-lovers as they ever were—or as any other women ever were.

This pleasant burst of optimism for the speaker is Dr. Charles Ford Langworthy, head of the Nutrition Investigations in the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Dr. Langworthy has just crowned a 15 years study of home economics in America with a trip abroad, during which he familiarized himself with domestic life in several European countries.

"The ideal modern home," he said, "is a government of excellent laws excellently enforced. The wife and mother is essentially a constitutional ruler. She knows the chemical facts of cooking and sanitation and the economic facts of food prices, and heating and lighting and housekeeping generally. According to these facts she regulates her menus, her expense account, her entire household. And because she is working intelligently with data that have been exactly determined, the results are of the highest.

"I am not one of the people who believe that the old way of housekeeping is all wrong. It is nonsense to say that no good bread was made before we knew the chemistry of bread-making. The knowledge of home economics was empirical, experimental, but it was still knowledge. Only so much rested with the experimenter, that is, the individual housewife.

"Many were fine domestic economists. But others were not. And there was no general code determined by scientific investigation on which to fall back. There have always been farmers. Within the past decade there have been book farmers. At first they were laughed at. They aren't laughed at any more. Neither are the book-housekeepers."

"But some people say that women are neglecting household duties for other occupations," I said.

Dr. Langworthy's round, plum face was at once illumined with a cheerful smile.

"All women are born domestic and most women stay domestic," he exclaimed. "It is the most natural thing in the world for them to be interested in home matters, and no amount of higher education or outside interest is going to change them. They will do other things besides cook and sew, but it's only so much more added on."

"Just compare the apartments of a business woman and a business man, and you will see that the woman is and always will be the housekeeper, and the man isn't and never will be."

"Those who criticize women for not doing work in just the way their grandmothers did are themselves arrogantly ignorant. They do not stop to consider changed conditions. The modern woman couldn't be the old-fashioned housekeeper if she wanted to be."

"For instance, 50 years ago it was unquestionably cheaper to bake one's own bread than to buy it. Today, in many parts of the country where fuel is dear, and in all the cities, it is cheaper not to bake one's own bread. Intelligent women are practicing such sensible economies."

"How does our home economics compare with that in the other countries you've visited?" I asked.

"Most favorably. We are doing quite as much educational work and

Advice on Affairs of the Heart, Written for the Post-Dispatch
By BETTY VINCENT.

Parents' Advice.
MY dear young people, listen to the advice of your parents. Remember, they are older than you are and have seen more of the world. You will never find any one who cares for you more disinterestedly than either your mother or your father.

I know Jane sometimes gets impatient when her mother tells her some young man who is calling at the house is not desirable. Jane thinks to herself:

Dear Jane who thinks this way—pause and consider: What possible object could your mother have in warning you against some young man if it were not for your own good. Believe me, all young men are not "wild." There are plenty of decent, honest men in the world, anxious for the friendship of a sweet, pure girl. So, my dear, just listen to what your mother and father may have to say.

Her Photograph.
A young man. Recently I had my photograph taken and most of the young men I know have asked me for it. Would it be proper for me to do as they wish?

I do not approve of young girls distributing their photographs promiscuously. To give a photograph to a young man you have known for a year or two is one thing. To give a photograph to a young man you have just met is quite another.

An Actress.
L. writes: "I am an actress, 22 years of age and am in love with a minister's son, who is also in love with me. However, because of my profession he objects to marrying me. What shall I do?"

Give up the minister's son. Any young man who objects to a woman because she is honestly endeavoring to own her own living is unworthy.

A Visit.
F. writes: "I am engaged to a young man. My fiancée is not announced. My fiancée is to be in the city on a visit and I wish to know if it will be proper for her to stay at our house for three days."

When you say "our house," I understand you live with your parents, and if this is true it will be quite proper for the young lady to visit you.

Another Ring.
M. writes: "To settle a friendly dispute with my fiancée you tell me whether or not it is proper for a girl to wear other rings on the finger with her engagement ring?"

It is not customary to wear other rings on the same finger with the engagement ring.

Different Religions.
R. writes: "A young man has been calling upon me for several years. Lately he found out I was of different religion from his own. And since then he has ceased to pay any attention to me. What shall I do?"

Let the young man go. It is ridiculous to object to the religious belief of a mere friend or acquaintance.

A Kiss.
G. writes: "Please tell me if it is proper to allow a young man to kiss you when he leaves you after bringing you home from the theater?"

It is not proper to kiss a young man under any circumstances unless you are engaged to marry him.

No Invitation.
B. F. R. writes: "I am engaged to a girl and we are soon to be married. Now, the brother of my fiancée is also going to be married; but he has not asked me to the wedding. Shall I go without an invitation, or what shall I do?"

Probably your fiancée's brother's neglect is merely an oversight. Speak to your fiancée and ask her to remind her brother that he has not yet sent you an invitation to his wedding.

Confessions of the 700th Wife

Interpreted for the Post-Dispatch
By HELEN ROWLAND.

(Copyrighted, 1910, by the Press Publishing Company.)

BEHOLD, my Daughter, how blithely a woman trifles with the Customs and seeketh to evade her duty.

For, unto her, SMUGGLING is an exhilaration, like unto a bargain hunt or the finding of money in her husband's pockets. Lo, a woman will take anything which can be gotten free of charge, from a trading stamp unto a dose of medicine.

But a man is suspicious of that which is offered for NOTHING whether it be a cigar or a woman.

Yet, behold, as a woman smuggleth into the Port of Love so doth a man rejoice to smuggle in the Port of Love.

A woman tucketh trinkets and jewels and laces up her sleeve and secreteth strange and marvellous things in her hats.

Go to! Thou Simple One, I charge thee accept NO man upon his own "declaration."

For, in the harbor of Matrimony, there are no inspectors, and thine own vigilance is thine only protection!

I say unto thee: WHAT man honestly "declareth" ALL his follies and weaknesses, all his past loves and all his present flirtations unto a woman?

Nay, even as a damsel returning from Paris acknowledgeth a FEW trinkets, so shall he tell thee a LITTLE, in order to appear NATURAL.

Yet, as she hideth her most EXPENSIVE treasures at the bottom of her trunk and forgetteth to speak of them, so shall he neglect to MENTION the most important items!

Verily, verily, he that saith, Lo, I have done all those things which I should not do, and none of those things which I should do. I am a worm and a villain, but I LOVE thee! shall be forgiven.

But he that poeth as a SAINT shall be cast down from his pedestal.

For, behold, a woman will forgive a man ANYTHING before she getteth him, but NOTHING afterward! SELAH!

Dollie Stories

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Daisy Miller.

"STOP that sneezing! You will blow us to pieces," said one of the Paper Dolls to the Toy Goat one morning as the sunbeams began to play hide-and-seek in the nursery.

"Well, well, where did YOU come from?" asked the Goat, looking at the Paper Dolls in amusement.

"Never mind where we came from," said one Paper Doll. "The fact is, we are HERE! It seems to me your whiskers need trimming, and, on the whole, I think you look very sheepish this morning."

"Who ever heard of a goat 'looking sheepish'?" asked the Toy Goat. "By the way, it seems to me you look as if you were a bit out up about something."

"Ha, ha, ha," said the largest Paper Doll, laughing until she almost bent in two. "What do you think of that?"

"The very idea of our being out up!" exclaimed the Boy Paper Doll. "Here comes the Toy Cat, she will soon finish that Goat."

"Hello, Goat, how are you?" asked the Cat.

"If I felt any better than I do now I would be sick," said the Goat, winking at the Paper Dolls.

"Say, Cat," began the Goat, "I want to ask you a question. When the Lady Bug goes to sleep where does she rest, her tired head?"

"I don't know," said the Cat. "Where DOES the Lady Bug rest her tired head?"

"Under a Caterpillar," said the Goat, laughing until the Dolls thought his head would come off.

"That's one on me," said the Cat. "Wait until I go and tell it to the Toy Dog!"

When Novels Were Long.

THE longest novels of today are pigmies compared with those published in the seventeenth century. Mlle. de Scudery's "Le Grand Cyrus" ran into ten volumes, its publication being spread over five years. And when it was translated, or, to quote the title page, "Enlarged by a person of Honour," it appeared in five folio volumes of some 500 pages apiece. Another novelist of the same period, La Calprenede was even more diffuse, one of his works, "Cleopatra," extending over 25 volumes. These novels found plenty of readers, despite their enormous length. The Paris publisher of "Le Grand Cyrus" made 100,000 crowns by the first edition alone. Nearly all the works of Scudery and Calprenede were translated into English as soon as they appeared and many of them into German as well.—London Chronicle.

In view of the overwhelming mass of evidence submitted to us, It is recommended that its use in baking powders be prohibited by law.—United States Senate Committee Report.

How Fat May Be Removed Rapidly by a Simple Home Remedy Without Causing Wrinkles, Disturbing the Diet or Necessitating Exercise.

"Fat is nothing but unused energy," says a prominent physician, and the man or woman who is burdened with it can easily get rid of it if they wish. All they need is a few ounces of Marmola, a natural product of the sea, which is a powerful and safe remedy for a few cents. Then eat, drink and be merry, and the fat will melt away at bedtime until they are down to the weight they want to be.

This simple home remedy is far and away better than any of the patent or secret medicines for it reduces the fat safely and healthily. When the ingredients are, in fact, beneficial to the system, and so help rather than dis- tress, the body can get rid of the fat without causing wrinkles, for it reduces one gradually and naturally, preserving a good physique, and the best of all, needs no physical exercise to help it do the work. Not does it require any change in diet— one can get results and still take things easy—eat, drink and be merry. When and how he or she pleases. Be sure and get the Marmola in a sealed package, so that you get Marmola and not a substitute.—ADV.

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir about two minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect and tastes pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in ginseng and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

FIFTEEN MEN TAKE REVENGE ON JEFFERSON CAR CONDUCTOR

He Had a Row With Two Passengers and Later Was Badly Beaten.

Fifteen men assaulted the conductor of a Jefferson avenue car Thursday night because he ejected two of their friends.

Two men boarded a northbound Jefferson car at Washington avenue at 7 p. m. Sherman Hicks of 2610 Russell avenue, the conductor, had a dispute over the payment of the men's fare, and at St. Louis avenue ejected them from the platform.

When the car on its return trip south reached St. Louis avenue half an hour later, 15 men boarded the rear platform and beat Hicks. He tried to signal his motorman for aid, but his assistants did not give him a chance to get near the bell cord. After the car had gone a block the crowd jumped off and disappeared.

When the car reached Dayton street Hicks reported the attack to the police of the Dayton Street District. He was painfully bruised and his coat was torn to shreds.

AGED PASTOR AND WIFE KILLED FOR A WATCH AND $2

Negro Who Was Member of Minister's Household Is Held as Suspect.

MOTHER ALSO IN JAIL.

Victim Was the Oldest Presbyterian Preacher in New Jersey.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 25.—The Rev. Amos L. Armstrong, the oldest Presbyterian minister in New Jersey, and his wife, Annie Rue Armstrong, were shot to death on their farm at Dutch Neck, nine miles northeast of this city. The murderer used a double-barreled shotgun. The shotman was first to meet death. As his wife ran screaming from the adjoining room at the report of the weapon the second barrel was emptied into her breast. The minister's gold watch and less than $2 in money which he carried in a pocket, furnished the motive for the killing.

John Sears, a half-breed negro, was lodged in jail here at 11 o'clock last night, charged with the double murder. Sears had been a member of the Armstrong household since he was three weeks old. His arrest followed admissions which were said to have amounted to a confession.

Mrs. Armstrong lived perhaps half an hour after she was shot and when neighbors found her body it was lying across the threshold of the kitchen, toward which she apparently had turned in an effort to alarm Rachel Sears, housekeeper of the Armstrong home and mother of John Sears.

Housekeeper Held As Witness.

Rachel Sears, a full-blooded negro, who has been a servant in the family of Mrs. Armstrong for nearly forty years, is under surveillance as a material witness. A story by which she sought to protect her son delayed his arrest for hours.

For 44 years, until 1901, the clergyman was pastor of the Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church. Until last June he had been clerk of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, to which office he was elected in 1896.

He was one of the original stockholders of the First National Bank of Cranbury, of which he was a director at the time of his death. His wife, whom he had married 15 years ago, was a member of a family that has been conspicuous in Mercer County affairs for three generations.

About midnight Wednesday Sears aroused George W. Denison, a neighbor.

"I'm just home from New Brunswick," the half-breed cried, "and there's been murder done over at our house."

Sears told a story to Denison which he repeated without essential variation a dozen times before daylight.

"I went up to New Brunswick," he declared, "at 7 o'clock last night to meet Rudolph Norhaus. I missed him, and when I got back on the last car my mother met me just as I was putting the key into the kitchen door."

"Robbers have been here," she told me, "for I heard someone come in the front door, and then I heard two guns fired. I think both the old people are dead. I was upstairs and I did not dare crawl out from under the bed until I heard your key in the lock."

"I wish you would come over," Sears said to Denison. "I'm scared, and I don't know how to tell the authorities, who ought to hear about this."

The alarm was spread fast and soon neighbors and officers were on the scene. To all the neighbors Sears repeated his story just as he had told Denison. The mother told her story as many times and quite as consistently.

"I had just gone up to my room," she said, "when I heard the front door slam. Then I heard voices in the study and pretty soon the sound of a gun. Then I heard a scream. I think it came from Mrs. Armstrong. In a minute or two I heard another shot, and I crawled under my bed and stayed there until I heard Jack's key in the door."

Questioned by Prosecutors.

Again and again Rachel Sears told this story. Even when Prosecutor Crossley questioned her she did not change from it. The son met the Prosecutor's inquiries as unflinchingly as the mother did.

It was in the gray of the dawn that the son was put on examination, and for an hour he not only answered all questions unhesitatingly, but smilingly. With daylight, curiously enough, his mood changed and he became grave. He still answered every question promptly. All of Thanksgiving day Sears was sequestered.

Investigation has brought two important facts to light. One is that the watch which Mr. Armstrong had worn for years on a chain around his neck, and which was of great value, was missing. The other is that two shotguns were found standing in a corner of the kitchen. One had empty shells in both barrels while the other had not been used for some days, apparently.

The unused gun, it was found, belonged in the house, while the other was the property of a neighbor, Omer Reed, who had loaned it to Sears ten days ago.

J. H. DOUGLASS' THEATER PARTY INTERRUPTED BY POLICEMAN
Attorney Arrested at Garrick on Charge of Exceeding Speed Limit.

Attorney John H. Douglass of 15 Vandeventer place took his wife and mother-in-law to the Garrick Thursday night but he did not see as much of the performance as they did for the reason that Motor Cycle Policeman Snyder, who had pursued the Douglass automobile down Locust street, arrested his owner at the entrance to the theater.

Douglass displayed his seat checks and protested that he had not intentionally broken the speed ordinance, but Snyder was obdurate. He yielded to the extent that Douglass was permitted to see his wife and her mother to their seats, but he insisted that Douglass accompany him to Central Station.

Snyder reported that the attorney was driving his machine at the rate of 30 miles an hour. He said he chased the auto east in Locust street from Garrison avenue and that Douglass did not lessen speed until Eighteenth street was reached.

Attorney Douglass paid costs of the case in the Clark Avenue Police Court Friday.

LOVE OF HEIRESS TOLD IN $100,000 SUIT BY HOWLAND Depositions Recount Miss O'Brien's Affection and Anxiety to Wed.

EAGER TO SIT NEAR HIM
Clergyman Who Married Them Says They "Beamed" on Each Other.

Charles O. Hudnut, borough clerk at Belmar, N. J., testified in depositions filed in the Circuit Court here Friday that while John A. Howland and Helen O'Brien were waiting for the issuance of the marriage license, Miss O'Brien acted in a very affectionate manner toward Howland.

Hudnut was asked if Howland seemed anxious to sit close to Miss O'Brien. "It was not so much his actions to be near her," replied Hudnut, "as it was her desire to sit close to him."

The depositions were filed in Howland's suit for $100,000 against Rose Cartan O'Brien, Marie O'Brien and James McKeown on a charge that they alienated the affections of his wife, Helen O'Brien Howland, and poisoned her mind against him.

The Rev. Thomas R. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Avon-by-the-Sea, who performed the marriage ceremony, testified that when they called on him both seemed "happy and anxious to be married, and beamed on each other."

William Hulsehart of Ocean Grove, N. J., Howland's uncle, testified that when he suggested going to a Baptist minister, Miss O'Brien said:

"I agree to that, Jack, come on."

Senator Oliver H. Brown, Mayor of Springfield, N. J., testified that Attorney John S. Leachey and McKeown called on him together and that they said Miss O'Brien was "an unsophisticated, innocent girl, brought up in a convent and that she knew little of the ways of the world."

WIFE DECLARES HUSBAND'S KIDNAPING STORY IS A JOKE
Tells Police She Went to Friend's House When He Became Quarrelsome.

Mrs. Mary Gwender, 304 Morganford road, opened the door of her home Friday morning when Mounted Policeman Buckley knocked to ask whether she was kidnapped Thursday night by three armed men, as her husband, Theodore Gwender, had related to the police. Gwender, in bed, was nursing a headache.

"It's the best joke I ever heard," said she, shaking with laughter. "My husband had too much Thanksgiving cheer. He certainly has imagination. We had a turkey dinner at home last night, and my husband suggested that we have a bottle of wine at Scheelmann's dance hall, 1220 South Broadway. We left there at 9:30 p. m. and he was in a quarrelsome mood. I told him that was no way to end a holiday and that he had better go his way and I'd go mine. I took a Broadway car and went to the home of Mrs. Mary Steper, 1708 South Second street. I stayed there all night and came home this morning."

At 2 a. m. Friday Gwender told the police of the Cayoteville kidnapping and his wife were set on by three men while on the way home, that they menaced him with revolvers and thrashed him, and that his wife was dragged away.

BLIND MAN'S FAMILY MEETS ILL LUCK WHILE ASKING HELP
J. D. Thoney, blind, and his wife, Louisa, a penniless peddler, went to police headquarters Friday with their three children to ask for money to take them back to their home in Indiana.

Bessie, 3 years old, saw a little pink pill lying on the floor of the station. She put it in her mouth. It was a sedative which had been dropped there by a prisoner.

A few minutes later in Chief Young's office Bessie became ill. She was hurried to the City Dispensary where a stomach pump was used. Physicians say she will be sick several days, but that prompt treatment saved her life. Having no charity fund the police referred the family to the Provident Association.

WIFE DECLARES HUSBAND'S KIDNAPING STORY IS A JOKE
Tells Police She Went to Friend's House When He Became Quarrelsome.

Mrs. Mary Gwender, 304 Morganford road, opened the door of her home Friday morning when Mounted Policeman Buckley knocked to ask whether she was kidnapped Thursday night by three armed men, as her husband, Theodore Gwender, had related to the police. Gwender, in bed, was nursing a headache.

"It's the best joke I ever heard," said she, shaking with laughter. "My husband had too much Thanksgiving cheer. He certainly has imagination. We had a turkey dinner at home last night, and my husband suggested that we have a bottle of wine at Scheelmann's dance hall, 1220 South Broadway. We left there at 9:30 p. m. and he was in a quarrelsome mood. I told him that was no way to end a holiday and that he had better go his way and I'd go mine. I took a Broadway car and went to the home of Mrs. Mary Steper, 1708 South Second street. I stayed there all night and came home this morning."

At 2 a. m. Friday Gwender told the police of the Cayoteville kidnapping and his wife were set on by three men while on the way home, that they menaced him with revolvers and thrashed him, and that his wife was dragged away.

BLIND MAN'S FAMILY MEETS ILL LUCK WHILE ASKING HELP
J. D. Thoney, blind, and his wife, Louisa, a penniless peddler, went to police headquarters Friday with their three children to ask for money to take them back to their home in Indiana.

Bessie, 3 years old, saw a little pink pill lying on the floor of the station. She put it in her mouth. It was a sedative which had been dropped there by a prisoner.

A few minutes later in Chief Young's office Bessie became ill. She was hurried to the City Dispensary where a stomach pump was used. Physicians say she will be sick several days, but that prompt treatment saved her life. Having no charity fund the police referred the family to the Provident Association.

JONES PRAISES
BENDER'S TEAM
FOR GOOD WORK

But Syracuse Coach Believes Eleventh of the East Are Superior to Those of the West.

THAT Western football coaches pay too little attention to the defensive work of their eleven, is the opinion of Tad Jones, the former Yale gridiron star, whose Syracuse team won a 6-0 victory over the St. Louis University aggregation Thursday. As Jones' team has engaged in three battles with Western eleven, Michigan and Illinois teams being the other foes of the New York Staters—he is well qualified to talk of the two different styles of play.

"The St. Louis team's offensive play was better than the defensive," said Jones to the Post-Dispatch. "On the other hand the defensive play of my eleven was better than its offense. That's the reason the score was close."

"After having seen Michigan, Illinois and St. Louis play, it is easy to see the difference in the manner the teams of the East and West are coached. In the East the players are taught defense. The offense is expected to come naturally. Out in this section, just the opposite seems to be the idea."

"I really believe the eleven of the East are superior to those of the West, but by that I do not mean to detract from the showing of Coach Bender's team. The Syracuse outfit is generally credited with being a fairly formidable squad, and by holding us to 6-0, the St. Louis players are entitled to a deal of credit. But my team wasn't at its best. Playing two big games in five days is a lot of work. Had the Syracuse eleven played St. Louis last Saturday, I believe we would have won by a wider margin."

Defense Is Primary Idea.
"This question of defensive work is the whole thing in representative Eastern colleges. It is the primary idea that the coaches hammer and hammer into the men. They talk and act and think and dream defense. At Yale, for example, the idea in the coaching system is that 'a good defense is a good offense,' while the Western coaches have it that 'a good offense is a good defense.'"

"The Eastern coaches, I believe, are correct on that, because if they can work up a wonderful defense, the offense comes more or less by instinct. I do not mean to say that Eastern coaches do not work on offense. They do, but not until the defense is almost perfect. They feel that if a player thoroughly how to handle his opponent on defense, then he will consequently know better how to solve that opponent's defense."

"Another thing I have noticed is the difference on interference for the run."

Against Great Odds, Bender's Men
Displayed Good Fighting Spirit

AT different times when the Syracuse eleven was in the St. Louis University goal line, the followers of the blue and white called for the local players to "hold." They responded nobly. Although pitted against a team that probably outweighed the St. Louis U. players, the Syracuse team showed a great fighting spirit.

They prevented the New York huckles from crossing their goal line. Two goals from placemen, one by Halback Wilkinson, who was the real star of the game, in the first half, and another by Waite, the sensational Syracuse kicker, in the second, comprised the visitors' tallying.

The St. Louis U. team didn't get near the Syracuse goal. But that was hardly expected. There was every reason to believe that the visitors would win the contest, but that the locals were able to hold their opponents to 6-0 and no touchdowns came as an agreeable surprise.

Syracuse's players outlasted St. Louis U. doing almost everything. Quarterback Ray Dockery kicked almost as well as Wilkinson. At times, two and three players would pave the way for the Syracuse man carrying the ball and when they jostled they jostled hard. It had its good effects for Syracuse.

It was a clean game. There were several penalties, but no intentional roughing or inflicting of the rules. It was also a good game from the spectators' standpoint and the 6-0 defeat was rather an agreeable surprise as victory was not expected.

WRAY'S COLUMN

AND there you are! That's what you'll say after you glance through a little of the football form as shown by the season just closed—or, more correctly, which will close with the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia Saturday. As evidence we offer the following:

Exhibit A.
Ursinus beat Pennsylvania, 6-0. Pennsylvania beat Brown, 20-4. Brown beat Yale, 21-0. Yale tied the best team in the country, Harvard, 0-0. Ursinus better than Harvard and Yale?

Exhibit B.
Ames beat Missouri, 6-0. Kansas tied Missouri, 6-6. Nebraska beat Kansas, 6-0. Yet Nebraska beat Ames, 24-0. What's the answer?

Exhibit C.
Michigan defeated Minnesota, 6-0. Michigan defeated Syracuse, 11-0. St. Louis U. and Ames, both barely won from Missouri, showing them to be approximately equal. Now, Minnesota, which figures one touchdown better than Syracuse, downed Ames, the equal of St. Louis, 40-0. Yet Syracuse can only beat St. Louis by 5 points—two field goals.

The answer? Sure—the new rules.

Come To Stay.
The new rules. The great levelers of football conditions. The means of giving the under dog a chance. Will they last? Well, ask which has the greater number of votes on the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee—the big eleven, or the little ones?

The answer is: They are here to stay.

The defeat by Syracuse University of the St. Louis U. team, by goals from the field, is a real success for St. Louis U. On form the local men did not figure to stop the Eastern eleven from scoring via the touchdown route—the ambition of every football winner. Syracuse showed the stronger team. "Between the 25-yard lines Jones' aggregation displayed a great facility for gaining ground. But consideration of its standing in the football community Syracuse really fell down when it failed to break through the opposing defense within the St. Louis 25-yard line."

In this respect it was consistent with its season's record, however; for the team has scored miserably this year, in proportion to its really good defensive strength. However, no credit can justly be taken from Bender's men. For it was due to their defensive strength, more than to the weakness of Syracuse's attack, that the Easterners failed to tally by the straight football route.

BOWLING

Hopeful For St. Louis.
As for the famous Eastern football, taught by Tad Jones of Yale—well, give me the Bender article, with another season to develop the green material, and we'll back the same team together with more hope of a local victory.

All things considered, the result of the battle was a great tribute to the prowess of John Bender. In one season he made something out of nothing. As the teams look today, St. Louis would have a great chance to wrest the valley title from Nebraska could the two teams meet this season.

Watch Us Next Year.
The real presages at least one good eleven for St. Louis, next season. As matters now stand, Bender will not lose one player from his regular band. Think of that! An entire veteran team! Football, after the ice is broken, is just experience; and next year the already veteran eleven of the local school should have a grand day of making good.

If St. Louis, with Bender still remaining as coach, takes that team into action next year, with all the physical development that will come with another twelve-month, to some of the youngsters, none of the Western aggregations is likely to meet well in its sphere—not even the crack Washburn eleven—the only team to earn its way through the defenses of St. Louis to a consistent touchdown.

Washburn and Syracuse will probably be signed by St. Louis U. next season. Both are good drawing cards, and Syracuse will be a better attraction than it was this year, because it, too, will come to the front with almost a veteran eleven.

Looks as though we will not much longer regret Edward B. Cochems.

What Barnes Did.
SPEAKING of Cochems. Did you not notice what his eleven did to the Belleville Tigers Thanksgiving afternoon—the Tigers, who have not been beaten in two years?

Well, as Victor Hugo once said of another subject, it was "the history of a crime." Cochems' team stepped on the field, took the kick-off and started to play football. On the first rush of Cochems' men, a little Belleville player averted through the line and tackled the Barnes runner for a loss.

Great applause for Belleville stands! A mere tantalizing of Barnes U. muscles was the only answer. That and a little football. A little, a mere trifle, which netted a final score of 80 to 0.

Those who saw the game say that it was revelation in trick plays and good football besides. This, too, from a team that has played but five times this season.

Isn't it too bad that such coaching material should go to seed?

The entire proceeds from the Lange's Alley on Friday, will be turned over to the fund to help finance the A. B. C. tournament to be held at the Coliseum, in January.

St. Louis is sending seven teams to the Middle West tournament at Omaha, although not an officer or a bowler in this city received a letter or an entry blank. Not a poster arrived here except a few to George Qualey, after he had left the city.

C. M. Barker, president of the City Association, has called a meeting for Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Coliseum Building at 3 p. m. Every bowler in the city is invited to attend. This promises to be the banner tenpin meeting ever held in this city. All the details for the City Association tournament in March will be decided.

It looks at present as though it would be a three-cornered fight for the next A. B. C. tournament between Milwaukee, Columbus and Peoria.

The entire ten clubs in the Commercial League will roll in the National event. Eight teams from the St. Louis Tenpin League, The Grand Central will have eight teams entered and the Tenthon, four.

Jules Schmitt and Emil Mason will make an exceptionally strong two-man team to compete in the Middle West event. A. C. Jefferson and J. J. Pfeiffer are not such a weak team either.

WILLIE LOCKE REFUSES TO BE BOSTON CLUB HEAD

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 25.—William H. Locke, secretary of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been mentioned as the "Dover" best president, has flatly refused to direct the Boston club next season. John P. Harris, the Pittsburgh manager, who bought up John S. C. Dover's controlling stock and is in a position to make a choice of an executive, will have to seek some one else to entrust with the destinies of the Hub club. Locke denied that he has been tendered the position, and according to his own statement, he would not accept the honor even if he were approached.

Locke is sorely put out on account of his name being coupled with the place, and he says that it was unusual. When queried on the matter he said:

"Nothing has been said to me of the matter. Of course I would feel honored were such an offer made to me, but I would be obliged to refuse it, for it would take more than the presidency to take me away from the Pittsburgh club."

Cochems' Team Beats Belleville.
The Barnes University eleven, coached by Eddie Cochems, defeated the Belleville team Thursday, 80-0.

Another Step Backward
Will Finish Bat Nelson

By ROBERT EDGREN.
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Batting Nelson has reached the crucial point in his fighting career. There is just one time in a fighter's life that is more important than the moment that he wins a world's championship. It isn't the moment of defeat that takes it away, although that's thrilling enough. The real heart strain comes when he makes his dying effort to "come back."

And that Batting Nelson knows that in this fight with Moran he must "come back" or forever hereafter hold his peace when championship matches are discussed. He has his heels at the precipice of oblivion, and he can't take any other step back without going over the edge.

There's nothing small about Nelson. He isn't trying to sneak back into public favor by beating a lot of easy marks and winning a new list of K. O.'s on his record. He never was a lemon picker. Anton Lagrave, whom Nelson used as his first trial horse after a year's absence from the ring, is regarded on the Pacific Coast as a first-class welterweight. Giving away 15 pounds, Nelson didn't do badly.

Moran Is a Worthy Foe.
Still, he's up against a harder proposition now than some he tackled in his championship days. Owen Moran is a clever fighter. He is "as tough and strong as Nelson himself. He is fast. He can hit hard. He is game and aggressive."

Nelson isn't playing the game he likes best. He has always liked to make his matches for 6 rounds or to a finish. Tomorrow he is to go only 10, and against a clever man like Moran he will be at a disadvantage. Still, he has knocked out other clever men in less than twenty rounds—Britt once, in 13. Gans in 17, Hanlon in 13, Corbett in nine.

He knows that if he can finish Moran he'll be regarded as the same old wonderful Dane who cleaned up when great lightweight were as thick as peas in a pod. And he knows that if Moran ever shades him there'll be small chance for him to chase Wolgast into a corner and demand a return match.

He light is to be held in San Francisco, in Hol's open-air arena during the afternoon if the weather is fine. In the auditorium at night if it is rainy.

Going at Rapid Rate.

Three more automobiles were killed at the Grand Prix race at Savannah. This was the race that was to have followed the Vanderbilt cup race, but which was transferred to Savannah owing to the wave of public indignation after the many deaths caused by the Vanderbilt cup affair.

It won't be long, at this rate, before all of the men we saw out on Long Island that fatal day are numbered among those who gave up their lives and were forgotten. Ten per cent of

EVERS PASSES UP JOB AS COACH OF
NAVY BALL TEAM

Rather Than Get in Disfavor With Chance, Infielder Will Not Go East.

ANKLE IS NOT MENDING

Chicago Second Sacker Will Not Be Able to Play Until June at Earliest.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Johnny Evers, the wounded Cub second baseman, does not purpose to accept the position of coach of the Navy baseball nine at Annapolis in defiance of the wishes of President Murphy and Manager Chance if such action will create friction and cause ill feeling toward him in the Cub camp.

Rather than see any lack of harmony in the ranks, Evers would decide between Annapolis and the shoe store on one hand, with retirement from active baseball as a sequel, or his place on the firing line with the Cubs in spring practice. And he does not say this as a threat, so those who know Evers' love of the game will see about as much chance for retirement as for him to sell patent leather pumps for outdoor wear in winter.

Evers Not a "Holdout."
Between sales of perfectly good pairs of "kicks" Johnny has been thinking over the situation, and while he wants to coach the Navy as much as he ever wanted anything in his life except to play in the last world's series, he does not think his previous announcement of intentions sounded quite as well in cold type as should come from a second baseman whom local fans think is without a peer.

Anyway, Johnny doesn't want one grain of the "holdout" appellation applied to him. At the same time he is hopeful President Murphy or Manager Chance will see their way to let him accept the coaching offer.

"I don't want to make any trouble," said Evers, "and if my wanting to get away, in the opinion of Chance, will weaken the team when we will be up on our toes fighting for the pennant again, I probably will give up the coaching offer unless I feel that I cannot play at all next season."

"My ankle is not coming as fast as I hoped, but perhaps I am unduly impatient. I don't expect to be able to play before June and possibly July. But if Chance thinks I ought to be on hand, I don't believe a coaching position sure for only one season is worth four or five years' disfavor with as good a fellow as Chance."

SEVEN LOCAL TENPIN
TEAMS OFF FOR OMAHA

Seven bowling teams will leave St. Louis Friday night to compete in the Middle West bowling tournament at Omaha, Neb., which starts Saturday morning. The local entries are the Dufres, "Buds," Falstaffs, Stifels, Diels, De Sotos and St. Louis Bowling Tournament Co.'s team. These teams include most of the cream of the St. Louis bowling talent.

Leos To Play Blue Bulls.
The St. Louis Soccer League race, to coach the Sunday's soccer doubleheader at Athletic Park. The second game is between the Knights of Columbus and Innisfalls eleven.

OLD SORES
DUE TO DISEASED BLOOD

Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh, and the fact that local applications have no permanent effect toward healing the ulcer, shows that deep down in the system there is a morbid cause for the sore. But more convincing proof that bad blood is the cause for these places is furnished by the fact that even removing the sore or ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; they always return. Nature will heal any sore if the blood is pure and healthy, but until the circulation is cleansed of all impure matter and supplied with nourishing and plasmas qualities the infected condition of flesh is OBLIGED to remain.

S. S. S. heals Old Sores in a perfectly natural way. It goes into the blood, removes the impurities and morbid matters, adds nourishing qualities to this vital fluid, and brings about the very conditions that are necessary for any sore can heal.

S. S. S. is a perfect blood purifier, acting directly on the circulation through the stomach and digestive members. Its use makes rich, red, healthy blood, which nourishes all flesh tissues instead of infecting them with the virulent matter which keeps old sores open. HACKNEY KICKED GOAL

But Hollenback's Team Was Penalized and Points Were Not Allowed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 25.—Missouri did not win her twentieth annual football game from Kansas University simply because Coach Hollenback's charges were not capable of stopping or breaking up the volley of forward passes which Capt. Johnson and company hurled time after time for successive gains across the Tiger line.

The Missourians played rings around Coach Kennedy's men in the first half, and but for an unlucky penalty at a critical moment, when Hackney was booting a perfect field goal from the Kansas 15-yard line, would have swept up the game then and there. With this unfortunate misplay, Kansas seemed to take on new life, and although the half ended a moment later with Missouri leading, 8 to 0, the Jayhawkers came back strong in the second half and made up for their shortcomings in the first two periods.

Only twice during the second half did Johnson resort to punting, so easy was it for him and his teammates to hook with the "Blind Tiger" time and again with the simplest forward pass in the world, one which was worked alike each time against Missouri, with either Johnson or Hill throwing the ball to one of the ends, who had his headgear tied with white bandages so he'd be more easily distinguished.

BOXING & FOOTBALL

JONES PRAISES
BENDER'S TEAM
FOR GOOD WORK

But Syracuse Coach Believes Eleventh of the East Are Superior to Those of the West.

THAT Western football coaches pay too little attention to the defensive work of their eleven, is the opinion of Tad Jones, the former Yale gridiron star, whose Syracuse team won a 6-0 victory over the St. Louis University aggregation Thursday. As Jones' team has engaged in three battles with Western eleven teams—Michigan and Illinois teams being the other foes of the New York Staters—he is well qualified to talk of the two different styles of play.

"The St. Louis team's offensive play was better than the defensive," said Jones to the Post-Dispatch. "On the other hand the defensive play of my eleven was better than its offense. That's the reason the score was close."

"After having seen Michigan, Illinois and St. Louis play, it is easy to see the difference in the manner the teams of the East and West are coached. In the East the players are taught defense. The offense is expected to come naturally. Out in this section, just the opposite seems to be the idea."

"I really believe the eleven of the East are superior to those of the West, but by that I do not mean to detract from the showing of Coach Bender's team. The Syracuse outfit is generally credited with being a fairly formidable squad and by holding us to 6-0, the St. Louis players are entitled to a deal of credit. But my team wasn't at its best. Playing two big games in five days is a lot of work. Had the Syracuse eleven known St. Louis last Saturday, I believe we would have won by a wider margin."

Defense Is Primary Idea.

"This question of defensive work is the whole thing in representative Eastern colleges. It is the primary idea that the coaches hammer and hammer into the men. They talk and act and think and dream defense. At Yale, for example, the idea in the coaching system is that a good defense is a good offense, while the Western coaches have it that a good offense is a good defense."

"The Eastern coaches, I believe, are correct on that, because if they can work up a wonderful defense, the offense comes more or less by instinct. I do not mean to say that Eastern coaches do not work on offense. They do, but not until the defense is almost perfect. They feel that if a team knows thoroughly how to handle his opponent on defense, then he will consequently know better how to solve that opponent's defense."

"Another thing I have noticed is the difference on interference for the run."

Against Great Odds, Bender's Men Displayed Good Fighting Spirit

At different times when the Syracuse eleven approached the St. Louis University goal line, the followers of the blue and white called for the local players to "hold." They responded nobly. Although pitted against a team that probably outweighed the St. Louis U. players 10 pounds to the man, Coach Bender's proteges showed a great fighting spirit.

They prevented the New York hunkies from crossing their goal line. Two goals from placement, one by Halfback Wilkinson, who was the real star of the game, in the first half, and another by Waite, the sensational Syracuse kicker, in the second, comprised the visitors' tallying. The St. Louis U. team didn't get near the Syracuse goal. But that was hardly expected. There was every reason to believe that the visitors would win the contest, but that the locals were able to hold their opponents to 6-0 and no touchdowns came as an agreeable surprise.

Syracuse's players outlasted St. Louis U. doing almost everything. Quarterback Ray Dockery kicked almost as well as Wilkinson in spite of the fact that he received less valuable assistance than the Easterner. There was a world of difference in the interference, tackling and running back of punts of the two teams.

In fact, Bender's players showed their greatest weakness in failing to drop the opposing players after they had received Dockery's punts. It was seldom that the Syracuse backs after taking the ball from Dockery's shoe failed to scramble back from 10 to 30 yards before finally being tackled.

There were also times when it seemed almost certain that a Syracuse man would get through for a long run and a touchdown. Wilkinson

WRAY'S COLUMN

AND there you are! That's what you'll say after you glance through a little of the football form as shown by the season just closed, more correctly, which will close with the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia Saturday. As evidence we offer the following:

Exhibit A.
Ursinus beat Pennsylvania, 6-0. Pennsylvania beat Brown, 20-0. Brown beat Yale, 21-0. Yale tied the best team in the country, Harvard, 0-0. Is Ursinus better than Harvard and Yale?

Exhibit B.
Ames beat Missouri, 6-0. Kansas tied Missouri, 6-6. Nebraska beat Kansas, 6-0. Yet Nebraska beat Ames, 24-0. What's the answer?

Exhibit C.
Michigan defeated Minnesota, 6-0. Michigan defeated Syracuse, 11-0. St. Louis U. and Ames, both barely won from Missouri, showing them to be approximately equal. Now, Minnesota, which figures one touchdown better than Syracuse, downed Ames, the equal of St. Louis, 6-0. Yet Syracuse can only beat St. Louis by 6 points—two field goals.

The answer? Sure—the new rules.

Come To Stay.
The new rules. The great leviathan of football conditions. The means of giving the under dog a chance. Will they last? Well, ask which has the greater number of votes on the intercollegiate Football Rules Committee—the big eleven, or the little ones? The answer is: They are here to stay.

The Defeat by Syracuse University of the St. Louis U. team, by goals from the field, is a real success for St. Louis U. On form the local men did not figure to stop the Eastern eleven from scoring via the touchdown route—the ambition of every football winner. Syracuse showed the stronger team. Between the 25-yard line Jones' aggregation displayed a great facility for gaining ground. But consideration of its standing in the football community Syracuse really fell down when it failed to break through the opposing defense within the St. Louis 25-yard line.

In this respect it was consistent with its season's record, however; for, though it has scored miserably this year, its reputation for its really good defensive strength.

However, no credit can justly be taken from Bender's men. For it was due to their defensive strength, more than to the weakness of Syracuse's attack, that the Easterners failed to tally by the straight football route.

Hopeful For St. Louis.
As for the famous Eastern football, taught by Tad Jones of Yale—well, we have to give the Bender men another season to develop the green material, and we'll back the same team together with more hope of a local victory.

All things considered, the result of the battle was a great tribute to the prowess of John Bender. In one season we made something out of nothing. As the teams look today, St. Louis would have a great chance to wrest the valley title from Nebraska could the two teams meet this season.

Watch Us Next Year.
The real presages at least one good eleven for St. Louis, next season. As matters now stand, Bender will not lose one player from his regular band. Think of that! An entire veteran team! Football, after the ice is broken, is just experience; and next year the already veteran eleven of the local school should have a grand chance of making good.

If St. Louis, with Bender still remaining as coach, takes that team into action next year, with all the physical development that will come with another twelve-month, to some of the youngsters, none of the Western aggregations it is likely to meet will be in its sphere—not even the crack Wahash eleven—the only team to earn its way through the defenses of St. Louis to a consistent touchdown.

Waite and Syracuse will probably be signed by St. Louis U. next season. Both are good drawing cards, and Syracuse will be a better attraction than it was this year, because it, too, will come to the front with almost a veteran eleven.

Looks as though we will not much longer regret Edward B. Cochems.

What Barnes Did.
SPEAKING OF Barnes. Did you notice what his eleven did to the Belleville Tigers. Thanksgiving afternoon—the Tigers, who have not been beaten in two years?

Well, as Victor Hugo once said of another subject, it was "the history of a crime."

Great applause in the field, took the kick-off and started to play football. On the first rush of Cochems' men, a little Belleville player snarled through the line and tackled the Barnes runner for a loss.

Great applause by Belleville stands! A mere tantalizing of Barnes U. muscles was the only answer. That and a little football. A little, a mere trifle, which netted a final score of 60 to 6.

Those who saw the game say that it was revealing in trick plays and good football besides. This, too, from a team that has played but five times this season.

Isn't it too bad that such coaching material should go to seed?

BOWLING

The entire proceeds from the Lange's Alley on Friday, will be turned over to the fund to help finance the A. B. C. tournament to be held at the Coliseum, in January.

St. Louis is sending seven teams to the Middle West tournament at Omaha, although not an officer or a bowler in this city received a letter or an entry blank. Not a poster arrived here except a few to George Qualey, after he had left the city.

C. M. Barker, president of the City Association, has called a meeting for Sunday, Dec. 3, at the Coliseum Building at 3 p. m. Every bowler in the city is invited to attend. This promises to be the largest meeting ever held in this city. All the details for the City Association tournament in March will be decided.

It looks at present as though it would be a three-cornered fight for the next A. B. C. tournament between Milwaukee, Columbus and Peoria.

The entire ten clubs in the Commercial League will roll in the National event. Eight teams from the St. Louis Tenthpin League. The Grand Central will have eight teams entered and the Tenthpin, four.

Lafayette gave Compton Hill 120 pins per game and took all three in a row. Lafayette, 71, 76 and 74; Compton Hill, 69, 67 and 63.

Jules Schmitt and Emil Mason will make an exceptionally strong two-man team to compete in the Middle West event. A. C. Jellison and J. J. Prueger is not such a weak team either.

WILLIE LOCKE REFUSES TO BE BOSTON CLUB HEAD

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 25.—William H. Locke, secretary of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been mentioned as the Doves' next president, has flatly refused to direct the Boston club next season. John P. Harris, the Pittsburgh manager, who bought up John S. C. Doves' controlling stock and is in a position to make a choice of an executive, will have to seek some one else to entrust with the destinies of the Hub club. Locke denied that he has been tendered the position, and, according to his own statement, he would not accept the honor even if he were approached.

Locke is sorely put out on account of his name being coupled with the place, and he says that it was unnecessary. When queried on the matter he said:

"Nothing has been said to me of the matter. Of course I would feel honored were such an offer made to me, but I would be obliged to refuse it, for it would take more than the presidency to take me away from the Pittsburgh club."

Cochems' Team Beats Belleville.
The Barnes University eleven, coached by Eddie Cochems, defeated the Belleville team Thursday, 6-0.

Another Step Backward Will Finish Bat Nelson

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Battling Nelson has reached the crucial point in his fighting career. There is just one time in a fighter's life that is more important than the moment that he wins a world's championship. It isn't the moment of defeat that takes it away, although that's thrilling enough. The real heart strain comes when he makes his dying effort to "come back."

And that Battling Nelson knows that in this fight with Moran he must "come back" or forever hereafter hold his peace when championship matches are discussed. He has his best at the precipice of oblivion, and he can't take another step back without going over the edge.

There's nothing small about Nelson. He isn't trying to sneak back into public favor by beating a lot of easy marks and pointing to a new list of K. O.'s on his record. He never was a lemon picker. Anton Lagrave, whom Nelson used as his first trial horse after a year's absence from the ring, is regarded as the Pacific Coast as first-class welterweight. Giving away 10 pounds, Nelson didn't do badly.

Moran Is a Worthy Foe.
Still, he's up against a harder proposition now than some he tackled in his championship days. Owen Moran is a clever fighter. He is "as tough and strong as Nelson himself. He is fast. He can hit hard. He is game and aggressive."

Nelson isn't playing the game he likes best. He has always liked to make his matches for 4 rounds or to a finish. Tomorrow he is to go only 10, and against a clever man like Moran he will be at a disadvantage. Still, he has knocked out other cleverer, in less than twenty rounds—Britt once in 15. Gans in 17. Hanlon in 13. Corbett in nine.

He knows that if he can finish Moran he'll be regarded as the same old wonderful Dane who cleaned up when great lightweights were as thick as peas in a pod. And he knows that if Moran ever shades him there'll be small chance for him to chase Wolgast into a corner and demand a return match.

The fight is to be held in San Francisco. In Hot's open-air arena during the afternoon if the weather is fine. In the auditorium at night if it is rainy.

Going at Rapid Rate.
De Hymel, the Aetec Indian who came here to drive in the Vanderbilt cup race, survived the Long Island disaster only to be killed last week in a race in California. Three more automobiles were killed at the Grand Prix race at Savannah. This was the race that was to have followed the Vanderbilt cup race, but which was transferred to Savannah, owing to the wave of public indignation after the many deaths caused by the Vanderbilt cup affair.

It won't be long, at this rate, before all of the men we saw out on Long Island that fatal day are numbered among those who gave up their lives and were forgotten. Ten per cent of

EVERS PASSES UP JOB AS COACH OF NAVY BALL TEAM

Rather Than Get in Disfavor With Chance, Infielder Will Not Go East.

ANKLE IS NOT MENDING

Chicago Second Sacker Will Not Be Able to Play Until June at Earliest.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Johnny Evers, the wounded Cub second baseman, does not purpose to accept the position of coach of the Navy baseball nine at Annapolis in defiance of the wishes of President Murphy and Manager Chance. If such action will create friction and cause ill feeling toward him in the Cub camp.

Rather than see any lack of harmony in the ranks, Evers would decide between Annapolis and the shoe store on one hand, with retirement from active baseball as a sequel, or his place on the firing line with the Cubs in spring practice. And he does not say this as a threat, so those who know Evers' love of the game will see about as much chance for retirement as for him to sell patent leather pumps for outdoor wear in winter.

Evers Not a "Holdout."
Between sales of perfectly good pairs of "kicks" Johnny has been thinking over the situation, and while he wants to coach the Navy as much as he ever wanted anything in his life except to play in the last world's series, he does not think his previous announcement of intentions sounded quite as well in cold type as should come from a second baseman whom local fans think is without a peer.

Anyway, Johnny doesn't want one grain of the "holdout" appellation applied to him. At the same time he is hopeful President Murphy or Manager Chance will see their way to let him accept the coaching offer.

"I don't want to make any trouble," said Evers, "and if my wanting to get away, in the opinion of Chance, will weaken the team when we will be up on our toes fighting for the pennant again, I probably will give up the coaching offer unless I feel that I cannot play at all next season."

"My ankle is not coming as fast as I hoped, but perhaps I am unduly impatient. I don't expect to be able to play before June and possibly July, but if Chance thinks I ought to be on hand, I don't believe a coaching position for only one season is worth four or five years' disfavor with as good a fellow as Chance."

Intending writing him again today, but did not get around to it. I still hope it can all be arranged."

SEVEN LOCAL TENPIN TEAMS OFF FOR OMAHA

Seven bowling teams will leave St. Louis Friday night to compete in the Middle West bowling tournament at Omaha, Neb., which starts Saturday morning. The local entries are the Dufres, "Buds," Falstaffs, Stifels, Diels, De Sotos and St. Louis Bowling Tourists. Each team has a different captain and most of the cream of the St. Louis bowling talent.

OLD SORES DUE TO DISEASED BLOOD

Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh and the fact that local applications have no permanent effect toward healing the ulcer, shows that deep down in the system there is a morbid cause for the sore. But more convincing proof that bad blood is the cause for these places is furnished by the fact that even removing the sore or ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; they always return. Nature will heal any sore if the blood is pure and healthy, but until the circulation is cleansed of all impure matter and supplied with nourishing and plasmas qualities the infected condition of flesh is OBLIGED to remain. S. S. S. heals Old Sores in a perfectly natural way. It goes into the blood, removes the impurities and morbid matters, adds nourishing qualities to this vital fluid, and brings about the very conditions that are necessary for any sore can heal. S. S. S. is a perfect blood purifier, acting directly on the circulation through the stomach and digestive members. Its use makes rich, red, healthy blood, which nourishes all flesh tissues instead of infecting them with the virulent matter which keep old sores open. Special book on Old Sores and any medical advice free to all who write.

CORNELL SCORES TWO GOALS IN GAME WITH PENN ELEVEN
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Two goals from the field by Quarterback Butler saved the Cornell eleven a shutout in the annual game with the Pennsylvania team here yesterday. The Quakers won the game, 15-4, although it was really a disappointment to the followers of the Philadelphia team. The backfield players failed to perform up to their usual standard, while there was little new football on tap. Ramsdell scored both touchdowns for the winners.

Haney Has Sheds Over Dean.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Stanley Dean, the middleweight from Texas, who claims the championship of that State, fought a hard six-round bout with Eddie Haney, the Southwest middleweight, at the Broadway Athletic Club last night. Haney was entitled to the verdict by a small margin.

FORWARD PASSES GIVE JAYHAWKERS TIE WITH TIGERS

Kansas' New Football Baffles Missouri Players in Second Half.

HACKNEY KICKED GOAL

But Hollenback's Team Was Penalized and Points Were Not Allowed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 25.—Missouri did not win her twentieth annual football game from Kansas University simply because Coach Hollenback's charges were not capable of stopping or breaking up the volley of forward passes which Capt. Johnson and company hurled after time for successive gains across the Tiger line.

The Missourians played rings around Coach Kennedy's men in the first half and but for an unlucky penalty at critical moment, when Hackney kicked a perfect field goal from the Kansas 15-yard line, would have swept up the game then and there. With this unfortunate misplay, Kansas seemed to take on new life, and although the half ended a moment later with Missouri leading, 5 to 0, the Jayhawkers came back strong in the second half and made up for their shortcomings in the first two periods.

Only twice during the second half did Johnson resort to punting, so easy was it for him and his teammates to hook with the "Blind Tigers" time and again, one which worked alike each time against Missouri, with either Johnson or Hall throwing the ball to one of the ends, who had his headgear tied up with white bandages so he'd be most easily distinguished.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

SPECULATIONS AT A STANDSTILL IN WALL STREET

Transfers Are Centered in Union Pacific, Reading and Steel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Small gains and losses were about equally distributed at the opening of the stock market today. Trading was again quiet and highly professional. American stocks in London were quiet at about parity. The British Parliament will be dissolved on Monday. The fortnightly session also begins on that day. The Bank of England's weekly statement makes a strong showing. The bank's discount rate remains unchanged at 5 percent.

Nothing of market importance developed over the holiday to turn the tide of speculation either way. It is asserted that the life insurance companies will petition the Legislature to repeal the clause against holding stocks provided for under the American law. This, it is true, would increase the speculation in the market immensely, as at one time the insurance companies were among the largest holders of securities.

The revolutionists in Mexico seem to be losing ground, while it is thought that the mutiny of the Brazilian warships will be quickly terminated by concessions on the part of the government.

Money seems to be working easier in all markets, but credit still remains a factor in the speculation. The banks have gained slightly in currency during the week, and a favorable bank statement is indicated.

There was no feature to the speculation in the second hour. Prices rose a fraction and then drifted off slowly. The range was slightly below Wednesday's final figures at the noon hour. Bonds were irregular.

Prices drifted upward in the late market until the early small losses were wiped out. Trading was at a standstill, however, and the market news was negative. The closing was quiet, with only small changes shown for the day.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Opening dealings in stocks today were so light as scarcely to warrant a report. The market was quiet, with a few exceptions. General Electric advanced 1/8 cent to 117 1/2. The stock of Mexico 22 preferred 1/4, the latter on news of a new loan. The stock of Overseas, the small changes were noted.

A slow hardening movement set in about 10 o'clock, and the market began to show signs of improvement. The stock of Union Pacific, Reading and Steel were the main feature.

St. Louis' Largest Clothing Store to Discontinue in Sixty Days
Necessitating the Inauguration Today of a Gigantic

RETIRING FROM BUSINESS SALE

THIS extraordinary sale is the culmination of the most important deal in St. Louis mercantile circles this year. The Grand-Leader secured the lease to The Model building in its entirety, and the owners of The Model thereupon decided to go out of business. The fixtures and good will were disposed of, also to the Grand-Leader, and under the agreement, possession of these premises must be given on February 1st next. This leaves The Model the very short space of 60 days in which to close out the stocks on hand, and we're determined it shall be done no matter to what extent prices must be reduced or what losses may be required to accomplish our purpose.

Prices Have Been Reduced Radically---Yes, Sensationally---Throughout These Immense Stocks of Men's, Young Men's and Boys' New Fall and Winter

SUITS AND OVERCOATS

Also Furnishing Goods, Hats and Shoes in the Latest Styles

THIS sale makes "The Model" the one place in all St. Louis where any man should consider making a clothing purchase. If he goes anywhere else he is simply permitting himself to pay many dollars more than he would spend at The Model for similar quality. We are depending upon the leverage of lowered prices to bring about the selling of $300,000.00 worth of fine merchandise by February 1st, and it is a business proposition pure and simple that should appeal to every thinking man.

THE Retiring Sale, which began this morning with apparently the attention of the entire community focused upon it and an exceptional interest being manifested, is overshadowing every other selling event in St. Louis like a mountain towering above a mole hill. If you were one of those unable to gain admittance today on account of the crowd, come again tomorrow. You will be amply repaid. Chances are that you will return again and again to participate in the benefits of remarkable underpriced selling.

THERE is nothing that men and young men need for wear that cannot be bought in this sale at sensational price-reductions, with the exception of two restricted lines, namely Manhattan Shirts and Stetson Hats; contracts with the manufacturers of these absolutely forbidding cut prices of any sort. All the other furnishing goods, embracing Shirts, Underwear, Neckwear, Fancy Vests, Gloves, Collars, Hosiery, Night Robes, Bath Robes, etc., you will find at prices that will "almost talk" to you.

Those popular Velour Hats and many styles in Soft and Stiff Hats, also Caps, are selling at sale prices that will be a revelation to you.

The Shoe department is offering bargains that, as soon as they become widely known, will be certain to divert the men's shoe trade of this city to The Model.

The Very Best Made Clothing in America
--Including Many Celebrated Brands--Will Be Found in This Sale at Reduced Prices

THIS is because The Model has not confined its selections to any one manufacturer. Instead, the world's most prominent and reputable clothes makers have contributed to make this store the one establishment in St. Louis where particular men and young men could supply their wants in high-grade clothing.

The fact is, you can't appreciate fully the tremendous importance and value of this stupendous sale to you and every other St. Louis man, if you do not take into consideration the superior character of the merchandise The Model has carried for the past year.

The Model secured the exclusive sale for St. Louis of many prominent lines. For instance, the unequalled garments made by The House of Kuppenheimer, with its national reputation, and which you see advertised in the magazines.

We might give you a lengthy list of such makers whose choicest fall and winter products you can buy now at sensationally reduced prices in this sale. We will mention just these few:

The House of Kuppenheimer Society Brand
Heidelberg, Wolff & Company
Ivan, Frank & Company

The Washington Company
The Athletic Cut
L. E. Remington
Bettman Bros. & Company

The same attention to fit and satisfy you will be given now as before the sale.
